MAJOR ELIOT SAYS:

Sending Rescue Army To MacArthur Would Be a Costly Blunder

(Editor's Note—Maj. George Fielding Eliot is the best-known military authority writing for any newspaper. In Washington he frequently is in conference with military authorities of the government. The Boston Evening American presents this as his opinion. Nevertheless, we believe that unless some daring attempt is made to rescue Gen. Douglas A. MacArthur the American people will be disappointed. We hear of bombers with 7000-mile radius. We think the American people will not be satisfied unless some effort is made to save this military genius. Three hundred thousand British were rescued from the claws of Hitler at Dunkirk.)

IT may be worth while to point out that a direct and immediate movement of troops to the Philippines "to rescue MacArthur" is hardly possible.

It is estimated that the Japanese have 200,000 men in Luzon. For us to send half that number there, with all the heavy equipment and supplies of a modern army, would require 800,000 tons of merchant shipping, about 160 ordinary size merchant ships.

From Pearl Harbor to Manila is 4800 miles. Maj. George Eliot, or about Fielding Eliot, 400 hours steaming at the speed that such a convoy could be expected to make.

For approximately three-fourths of this time the convoy would be within the radius of action of enemy aircraft stationed in their scattered island bases. During the whole of its passage, it would be subject to attack by enemy surface vessels and submarines.

It would require the whole of the United States Pacific fleet to escort it, and even the its safety could not be assured from attacks by day and night, desperately driven home with no thought but to get bomb or torpedo hits at the troop ships.

There would be no means of giving the convoy protection except by the use of carrier-borne aircraft and, considering the enormous area in which such a convoy would move, it would be absolutely impossible for the 24 squadrons, which form the total of our carrier-borne strength, to give continuous protection to such a vast assembly of ships, day and night, for over two weeks, even if those squadrons were all fighters.

And if they were all fighters our carriers would have no bombers with which to strike back at the Japanese ship or island bases.

This would represent simply a holocaust of the flower of American youth, to say nothing of throwing away 800,000 tons of shipping at a moment when every ton of such shipping is worth almost its weight in gold.

We have had to learn the hard way that no movement of ships or troops on the surface of the earth, whether by land or sea, can hope to succeed unless it can be given adequate air support. Air support means not only planes but bases—whether land bases or floating bases.

Until we are ready with the air element to support any surface enterprise we had better not undertake the surface enterprise. The loss of the Prince of Wales and Repulse should be a sufficient reminder on this point and we need not throw away 100,000 American troops to have it further demonstrated to us.

JAPS DROPPING FIRE BOMBS BEHIND MacARTHUR'S LINES

U.S. OFFICIAL

Washington

Feb. 20 (INS)

Japanese planes, today were reported dropping incendiary bombs on Gen. Douglas MacArthur's installations on Bataan peninsula apparently in an effort to wipe out the defenders' ammunition dumps and supplies.

The War Department in a communique stated there was little activity on Bataan except for "positional" fighting between front line troops facing each other from fox holes and trenches.

The lull in general activity in the Philippines indicated that the Japanese still do not consider themselves in a position to attack MacArthur with full force despite their estimated 10 to 1 superiority in manpower.

MacArthur, in reporting the use of incendiaries, stated the enemy is employing white phosphorus. This was taken to mean that the Japanese are putting these bombs to double use. Phosphorus fires give off much more smoke than those set by thermite, the usual incendiary filler, and thus help set up a smoke screen.

Also, it was pointed out that phosphorus inflicts much worse burns when employed against troops.

Feb. 20 (AP)

Red Star declared today that the fighting coalition of the United States, Britain and Soviet Russia is stronger than Germany in resources and reserves, and predicted the defeat of Adolf Hitler's spring campaign and the crushing of his armies this year.

PRISONER — Harry Stuart Fraser, 19-year-old New Haven sailor, was taken a prisoner of war by Japanese at the capture of Wake Island. He joined the Navy a year ago and was last heard from Nov. 17.

"Economic resources will mean the final decision," said the journal of the Red army. "Soviet Russia, Britain and the United States are producing 28 times as much gasoline as Germany together with her vassals and occupied lands."

The United States turns out three times as much steel as Germany, Red Star said. It declared that in man power reserves the United States, Britain and Russia were far ahead.

"The help we are receiving from our Allies is growing continuously," Red Star said, "and no doubt simultaneously the mil-

Many efforts of our Allies will grow."

HITLER'S LOSS OF MILLIONS The Red army organ said that in his efforts for a quick victory over the Soviet Union Hitler lost 6,000,000 men in the first five months of the war. Since then the rate of loss has been even greater, the newspaper asserted.

Germany cannot replace her lost man power; the main mass of the regular German fighting force already has been destroyed or incapacitated, Red Star said.

It added: "Germany will be weaker in man power this spring than she was last summer."

Red Star raised a question whether Hitler's talk of a great spring offensive is not intended primarily to raise the spirits of his troops and gloss over the bad state of his present campaign.

The newspaper said it seemed odd that a military secret such as plans for a spring offensive should be so widely publicized.

Dispatches from the fighting front said 1500 Germans had died in three days of counterattacks in one sector of the southern front, where the Nazis were trying to check a Soviet wedge being driven into the Donets basin.

These dispatches said warmer weather, with rain instead of snow, already was being felt on the far southern front.

On the northwestern front the Red army was said to have won back 12 more villages.

On the still-frozen battlefields far to the north the Russians reported

OFFICIAL NEWS

With invasion today of the idyllic island of Bali (and Timor, according to an additional Tokyo claim), Japan's multiple front offensive in the southwest Pacific took ominous form as a threat to isolate the United Nations forces in Java, if not to by-pass that stronghold for a direct attack on Australia.

The waters around Bali, a Dutch colonial paradise where war had been little more than a fable of the white men, were thrashed by the torpedoes, bombs and shells of warships and warplanes as the United Nations closed in an apparently unsuccessful battle to bar the strong sea-borne invasion force from the gleaming beaches of Bali. The defenders again were exacting a heavy price for the Jap attack, but evidently not heavy enough.

Japanese landing parties swarmed from their transports and cut through the surf with their landing barges, despite the counter-blow of Allied air and surface craft and submarines.

SCORE DIRECT HITS

The defenders scored direct bomb hits on one or more Japanese cruisers and three transports and eight near misses on a battleship, according to an early communique of the United Nations. Four Japanese fighters were shot down and the defending air force returned to base intact.

United Nations warships and submarines had opened the counter-attack last night on the invasion forces concentrated in waters around Bali.

The 2095-square-mile island is separated from easternmost Java at its nearest point by a mile-wide strait. It is only about 120

Mrs. F. D. Resigns As Landis OCD Aide

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20 (AP)—Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt today resigned her post as assistant director of the Office of Civilian Defense. James M. Landis, director, accepted the resignation in a letter voicing gratitude for her "vision and energy," but saying he could not ask her to continue "to give so greatly of your time and your gallantry."

HERO'S WIFE CARRIES ON

China May Gain Bases for U. S.

CHUNGKING, Feb. 20 (AP)—Hope for a Chinese counter-offensive to gain air bases for United States planes within striking distance of Japan was voiced by informed quarters today as a result of the imminent visit of Maj.-Gen. Joseph W. Stillwell on a mission for President Roosevelt.

Japan's vulnerability to China-based air attack is illustrated by the fact that the Japanese-held island of Formosa, concentration point for Tokyo's southwest Pacific offensive, lies a scant 100 miles off the east China coast.

Mrs. Roosevelt recently made known her intention to resign as soon as her division was functioning efficiently.

"That is now accomplished," her letter of resignation to Landis said, "and by remaining I would only make it possible for those who wish to attack me, because of my beliefs, to attack an agency which I consider can prove its usefulness so completely to the people, that it should be free of attack, in order to render its maximum service."

LAGUARDIA APPOINTEE

"No individual is more important than a good program. I feel that yours is and will be a program vital to the well-being of the people of the country."

The First Lady was appointed to OCD last September by Director F. H. LaGuardia, and OCD officials said she contributed "more than half" of her time to the agency. She was in full charge of community activities and volunteer workers.

Both her letter and that of Landis made reference to the recent outburst of criticism at OCD, which resulted Wednesday in the resignation of Mrs. Roosevelt's protege, the blonde dancer, Mayrla Chaney. Miss Chaney resigned her $4600 position in the children's unit. Landis' office accepted her withdrawal with "no comment."

PRaised BY LANDIS

"I need not tell you, what the world knows," Landis' letter to Mrs. Roosevelt declared, "that you brought to the Office of Civilian Defense the vision and energy to carry out those portions of the executive order that directed us to mobilize the energy of everybody behind the defense, now the war, effort."

"Not a farm nor a home but is now conscious of the imprint of your spirit; indeed, no one but now knows that they have a task in civilian defense."

"This has been true building of America's fighting faiths beside which criticism is puny, attack misplaced."

Mrs. Roosevelt's resignation was made effective today.

Landis said he had "been aware for some time," of Mrs. Roosevelt's wish to quit active participation in the OCD.

400 LIBERTY MUTUAL WORKERS SWELL FUND WITH $50,000 PLEDGE

BUY BOMBERS WITH BONDS!

With that stirring slogan as their guide, thousands of patriotic Americans are pouring their money into the drive which will sweep the skies clear of aggressors.

They are buying BONDS, BONDS, MORE BONDS, and with spare change, they are buying STAMPS.

To the ever-growing legion pledging their financial support to America's FIGHT FOR FREEDOM, today was added the 400 employees of Liberty Mutual Insurance Company of Boston.

FIFTY THOUSAND DOLLARS is the promise given by these loyal Americans through Oscar H. Simmons, vice-president and treasurer of Liberty Mutual, in a letter to the BUY-A-BOMBER EDITOR, Boston Daily Record-American and Sunday Advertiser.

"We have installed a salary deduction plan in this company whereby employees can accumulate savings for the purchase of U. S. DEFENSE BONDS," Vice-Pres. Simmons wrote.

Every worker in the organization will be able to join this stirring demonstration of American solidarity. Even the employees in the low income brackets are provided for in the Liberty Mutual's BUY A BOMBER WITH BONDS AND STAMPS.

PLAN INCLUDES ALL

"In order that the plan may apply to the small purchaser as well as the substantial one," Mr. Simmons said, "a deduction as low as 37½ cents per week can be made under the plan."

The plan outlined for Liberty Mutual employees is symbolic of the democratic spirit we are fighting to maintain. IT CAN BE DONE WITH BOMBS AND BONDS AND STAMPS WILL HELP DO IT!

U-BOATS HERE TO FREE JAPS IN PACIFIC

LONDON, Feb. 20 (AP)—Germany has launched a major submarine offensive in the North Atlantic from the Azores to Greenland, to cooperate with Japan by keeping United States naval units in the Atlantic and preventing reinforcement of the U. S. Pacific fleet, informed British sources said today.

These sources declared that, according to information from the continent, the Nazis had 34 U-boats in the North Atlantic early in February. This probably means, they added, actually there were three times that many operating then in this area.

Japanese demands for naval cooperation were said to have been made at an Axis conference in Bavaria early in January. Vice-Admiral Karl Doenitz, in command of the U-boat fleet, was said to have told them he would use "pack tactics" on the sea lanes near Europe while his largest submarines and best crews would range the North American coast.

Original opening date for the campaign, according to these reports, was April 1. Instead, renewed Japanese urging led the Nazis to open their campaign two months ahead of schedule, the sources added.

Hitler was said to have given Doenitz the same latitude which the Kaiser gave Admiral Von Tirpitz in the spring of 1917, when the Germans announced the opening of unrestricted submarine warfare.

German U-boat building was said to have been stepped up this winter at inland factories.

The attacks on Allied tankers moving out of Aruba in the Dutch West Indies and along the eastern coast of the United States were seen as designed to cripple the world's dwindling tanker fleet.

PLAN ATTACK ON ARUBA

But British sources predicted that the Germans, after three months of the heaviest U-boat offensive that ever has been seen, might gamble on sending one of their larger warships into the Caribbean to attempt a knockout blow at Aruba and its refineries. By then, according to this plan, the submarines already would have forced the Allies to disperse their heavier surface ships and such an operation might be executed successfully.

LONDON HAILS CHURCHILL CABINET SHAKEUP AS BIG AID TO VICTORY

By CHARLES A. SMITH

International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, Feb. 20—Streamlining his war cabinet to a body of seven men, Prime Minister Winston Churchill yielded today to the clamor of criticism against his government's conduct of the war.

On the whole, the press received the changes enthusiastically, although the London Daily Express pointed out that Churchill "has not gone all the way that his critics demanded." But the Express added: "He has not them squarely and given them a fair deal."

Churchill remained at the helm in the combined posts of Prime Minister and Minister of Defense. But sweeping changes nevertheless were carried out.

Lord Beaverbrook resigns as Minister of Production while Sir Stafford Cripps, former ambassador to Russia, and Capt. Oliver Lyttleton, war supply expert who has been stationed in the Middle East, were appointed to key posts.

Lord Beaverbrook will go to the United States as British representative to work on the United Nations' project of pooling their resources in the war against the Axis powers.

STILL CARRIES LOAD

The London Daily Herald said that "not much has been conceded to advocates of a cabinet whose members, except as co-ordinators, would be entirely free from day-to-day work in their departments, nor has Churchill consented to lighten his own load by delegating tasks to the Ministry of Defense."

The London News Chronicle commented that the prime minister "has chosen the democratic method of solving the problem that confronted him and he is stronger today than yesterday by reason of it." But it added that the cabinet "still retains serious defects in organization" and that it "introduces new men but not as yet new methods."

POST FOR CRIPPS

Cripps was given the post of lord privy seal and government leader in the House of Commons. Lyttleton was made minister of state, taking over the war productions duties of Lord Beaverbrook, whose resignation was tendered because of his health.

Another important change was the designation of Clement Attlee, former lord privy seal, as dominions secretary and deputy prime minister.

The war cabinet was reduced from nine to seven members. Sir Kingsley Wood, Chancellor of the Exchequer, and Arthur Greenwood, minister without portfolio, were dropped from the war cabinet but still retain their posts in the government.

The new seven-man war cabinet includes:

WINSTON CHURCHILL, Prime Minister and Minister of Defense.
SIR JOHN ANDERSON, Lord President of the Council (same post he previously held).

ANTHONY EDEN, Minister of Foreign Affairs (same post he previously held).

SIR STAFFORD CRIPPS, Lord Privy Seal and Government Leader in the House of Commons.

CLEMENT ATTLEE, Minister of Dominion Affairs and Deputy Premier. (He was formerly Privy Seal).

CAPT. OLIVER LYTTLETON, Minister of State.

ERNEST BEVIN, Minister of Labor and National Service (same post he previously held).

Berlin Sees Britain War Cabinet Shift As Stalin Victory

BERLIN (From German Broadcasts), Feb. 20 (AP)—The German radio described British Prime Minister Churchill's war cabinet shakeup today as a bit of "democratic political juggling" resulting in a victory for Premier Joseph Stalin of Soviet Russia.

With the appointment of Sir Stafford Cripps, former ambassador to Moscow, to a place in the war cabinet, "the balkanization of Britain has received official confirmation," the radio said.

Ickes Order Limits Fuel Oil Deliveries

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20 (AP)—A system to restrict fuel oil deliveries to homes, industries, and for commercial purposes in the East was announced today by Petroleum Co-ordinator Ickes, in the face of fast diminishing stocks resulting from tanker sinkings and diversion to war purposes.

Intended to spread the available supplies so that consumers may share equitably, the plan, effective immediately, provides:

1.—No marketer shall deliver fuel oil to any consumer for use other than for domestic heating, if that consumer's stock of fuel oil is in excess of the amount he would normally use during the ensuing 14 days.

2.—If, however, a consumer's stock drops to or below the amount he would normally use in the next 14 days, the marketer will be permitted to sell or deliver an amount of fuel up to but not exceeding the capacity of a single tank car or other transportation unit normally used in making deliveries to the consumer, or an approximate two week's supply, whichever quantity is the smaller. Similar provisions govern deliveries by marketers to resellers.

3.—In the case of consumers using fuel oil for domestic heating, no delivery may be made if the consumer's stock exceeds 20 per cent of the capacity of his fuel tank. When or if the consumer's stock falls below 20 per cent, then a marketer may deliver fuel oil up to the amount required to bring the total contents of that tank to 75 per cent of capacity.

Ickes office estimated the restrictions would affect deliveries to over 1,250,000 homes using oil for heating in the 17 Atlantic seaboard states and the District of Columbia.

Certain exemptions were made such as for deliveries to hospitals. Ralph E. Davies, deputy petroleum co-ordinator, said the plan did not involve rationing, as there were no restrictions placed on consumption.

Bay State Plans Set For Sugar Rationing

Sugar rationing registration for the 4,000,000 residents of Massachusetts will take place in all the elementary schools of the state from March 16 to 19.

This announcement was made today by State Rationing Administrator Thomas M. Joyce, who added that retailers, wholesalers and industrial users of sugar will be required to register in high school buildings March 3 and 10.

When actual rationing will begin or the definite amount of sugar to be allotted each person has not yet been decided. It was first reported that 12 ounces a week per person would be distributed, but Washington authorities are now considering cutting each individual's portion to half a pound due to unfavorable war developments.

Persons registering will receive books of stamps entitling holders

5-Cent Coffee Tax Is Urged in Congress

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20 (AP)—A retail sales tax proposal seemed likely to bob up today as a source of friction between legislative and Treasury fiscal experts, otherwise reported agreed on the general principles of a new $7,000,000,000 revenue-raising program.

Treasury opposition to such a levy was said to have been expressed strongly at a conference of Chairman George (D.), of Georgia of the Senate finance committee and Doughton (D.), of North Carolina, of the House ways and means committee with treasury representatives last night.

George told reporters he believed there was a growing sentiment in the country, already reflected in Congress, for the employment of a sales tax to raise a sizable portion of the new revenues.

The Treasury experts were reported to have suggested, instead, that stiff increases be made in excise taxes on certain selected products and that the number of these products be widened greatly. There was said to have been some discussion of a possible tax of 5 cents a pound on coffee.

SALES TAX A PROBLEM

The Treasury was represented as contending that its machinery for the collection of excise taxes already was set up and could be expanded with small difficulty.

To collect a sales tax, the treasury representatives were said to have argued would require the formation of a new large organization at a time when there was doubt that the necessary personnel could be obtained because of the manpower demands of the war production program and allied activities.

OPPOSITION CITED

Despite this, the Congressional representatives were said to have contended that any proposal for increases in excise taxes would be sure to be met by demands for a uniform levy on all commodities, with the possible exception of food, clothing and medicine.

N. Y. Boy in Java Phones Home: 'Send Us Planes!'

NEW YORK, Feb. 20 (INS)—"For God's sake send us planes!"

"Fighters, pursuit planes, dive bombers."

From the bomb-shattered island of Java this desperate appeal had come today through the voice of Ensign Edgar F. Hazleton, Jr., son of the former Long Island Jurist.

The plea was made in a long-distance telephone call from Batavia received by Hazleton's parents in their home at Huntington, L. I.

"We're doing our best with what we have," the ensign told his father. "We can hold out if the people back home will understand and help. But, for God's sake, please get your friends to send us planes—pursuit planes, dive bombers and fighters!"

Ensign Hazleton, who is 25, is a pilot in the air arm of the Asiatic fleet. His brother, Donald, 23, is also an ensign who was aboard the U. S. S. West Virginia when Pearl Harbor was attacked.

Mrs. Theresa Hazleton answered the phone in her home yesterday.

The operator told her to stand by for a long distance call at 8 p. m.

"Instinctively I knew it would be from one of my sons," she said.

"At 8 p. m. I was told to stand by again and 45 minutes later the call came through. Edgar's voice was strong and clear.

"But we were repeatedly interrupted by a voice droning 'Naval censor — naval censor.' Apparently he was being warned throughout his conversation."

War Costs 145 Billion; 2-Year U. S. Income

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20 (AP)—The War Production Board said today authorized outlays for war, plus war funds requested of Congress, totalled an estimated $145,400,000,000.

The sum was only slightly under the national income for 1939 and 1940 combined, estimated at $146,708,000,000.

Hub Schools Probe Sororities After N. Y. Suicide

By ALICE BISSELL
Boston Evening American Staff Reporter

You've all heard of the sweetheart of Sigma Chi, that lucky sorority sister of song with her pretty clothes and her clique and her nice club pin to show for it.

But what about the girl that never got a "bid"?

The suicide of 17-year-old Ruth Livingston, White Plains, N. Y., high school student, brought the question of high school sororities before Boston school officials today.

Ruth shot herself after she learned that her sister, Phyllis, 15, was to be blackballed by Beta-Pi Mu, one of the three sororities in the White Plains high school.

Incensed as the people of that town over "the undemocratic adolescent cruelties" that led to the high school senior's death, Clement Norton, chairman of the Boston school committee, revealed that he had already started an investigation of cases reported to him since the New York girl's suicide was made known here.

ONE GIRL'S SAD STORY

"I am sorry to say that these sororities exist in Boston and the suburbs," he said. "I hate them. It encourages snobbishness, class distinction, and starts the students out with the wrong ideas on life. It is one of the most wicked crimes that these secret organizations should exist during the formative period of a girl's life."

Among the cases presented to him was that of one Boston girl, 17 years old, who had made a sorority. She had been there a few months when her colleagues decided they wanted someone else in her place.

They held a secret meeting with every one present except the girl, and expelled her from their circle with the explanation:

"You're not the type we want."

The mother reported the girl refused to go to school, that she could not study, and that the knowledge she was disliked had a mental effect on her from which she may never recover.

DITCH-DIGGER'S DAUGHTER

A Brighton girl with an A average suddenly started to get bad marks. Although she was pretty, her clothes were poor. She was blackballed by her sorority. The sorority "sisters" had found out her father was a ditch-digger.

Another mother complained to Norton that since her daughter had finally become a member of a sorority after a long struggle, she had become snobbish and self-centered, refusing to associate with her former non-club friends.

Principals of high schools in and around Boston were questioned about the sororities and without exception they frowned upon them. Many years ago the school committees realized the emotional upsets these associations caused in the lives of the girls and were told they could not operate in the schools.

Nevertheless, three or more exist in many high schools without official sanction, and their meetings are held at private homes.

LIKENED TO FIFTH COLUMN

One school official likened the sorority to the fifth column, accusing them of spreading unsound principles secretly through the otherwise democratic institution.

At one suburban high school, however, two members of an old, exclusive sorority with 25 members out of an approximate 1000 girls, came to the defense of the club.

"We take in 12 each year," said one of the sorority's officers. "There is nothing sneaky or secret about it. We have meetings twice a month and just chat and plan parties. It's the natural thing to want to be in a club with nice girls of your own choosing. And anyway, we are a charitable club. We collect money for charity."

In the same school, however, a non-member spoke for friends who could not feel that charity had any part in the hearts of the sorority.

"We know that everyone has a right to her own friends, but the sorority seems to be such an important part of school life that we feel completely left out.

"We don't like to tell our mothers how we feel and how we would like better clothes so that we'd have more chance of belonging, because they would feel badly. They are trying to send us to school, and we came with such hope and now we don't even want to finish."

A sophomore commenting on Ruth Livingston's suicide, said:

"It's awful to feel you're not wanted. We hear them planning parties and whispering secrets and wearing special ribbons, and sometimes we cry. Most of them don't speak to us."

She said a friend had a nervous breakdown, caused by an inferiority complex and worries about sororities.

"It seems unimportant to grown-ups, and girls are too proud to say how they feel."

Chair Kills 2 Of Murder, Inc.

OSSINING, N. Y., Feb. 20 (AP)

—A double-execution at Sing Sing Prison early today sent two more members of Brooklyn's Murder, Inc. gang to their deaths.

Frank (The Dasher) Abbandando, 33, and Harry (Happy) Maione, 32, died within a few minutes of each other.

They were convicted of the 1937 slaying of George Rudnick, a Brooklyn stool pigeon, whose talk they silenced with 54 ice pick jabs.

Although they were the first convicted members of the kill-for-cash ring, they were the second pair to die. The chair got Harry (Pittsburgh Phil) Strauss and Martin (Bugsy) Goldstein while the Dasher and Happy were being retried and resented after their first conviction had been set aside.

The Dasher didn't even try to live up to his underworld nickname as he entered the death chamber. Head bowed, he went to the chair in silence.

PASTOR PROTESTS DANCER FOR LYNN PARKS

"Lynn should remember the world is aflame and instead of dancing the people should help put the fire out," the Rev. John Morgan Currie, pastor of Essex St. Union Baptist Church, Lynn, declared today in protest to appointment of a dancing instructor by the city's park department.

"The public's attitude was made clear in the recent case of Mayris Chaney in the OOD," the Rev. Currie pointed out. "The park department should take its cue from that instance."

The pastor's complaint was lodged against the naming of Mrs. Virginia Dales, 38, of Central ave., Lynn, to teach dancing to children and adults.

PAID $1.90 WEEKLY
For her part Mrs. Dales, an attractive brunette who used to share her lunches with findom's Ray Bolger when they attended a Boston dancing school, said she was a little worried over becoming the Mayris Chaney of Lynn.

"Jobs are hard to get and you don't like to have people taking pot shots at them," she asserted. "Further, Miss Chaney—and I don't think away dancing teacher is worth the price—was to have been paid $38.00 a year for her job. My job pays $21.00 a week and the WPA, not Lynn, signs the check."

"I'm sure Pastor Currie was misinformed as to who was paying me for teaching dancing. I teach in Nahant, Saugus and Swampscott, as well as in Lynn, and I pay my own traveling expenses."

PASTOR PROTESTS

"Recreation is definitely a part of war work and it has been proven that dancing has a beneficial effect not only upon the children but on the grown-ups as well."

"I have nothing against Mrs. Dales personally, but I think if the park department has so much money it can fritter it away like this, they would do better to buy bonds or donate to the Red Cross," Rev. Currie stated.

He drew an analogy between Lynn's dancing lessons and Nero fiddling while Rome burned, adding:

"However, I don't recall that anyone danced while Nero fiddled."

The clergymen admitted he does

MAYOR CAREY WARNS 'HERO' AID TO STOP

Mayor Raymond E. Carey of Revere today stepped into the battle being waged by Frederick Donnatelli, 27, of School st., Revere, to enlist in the Army.

Mayor Carey questioned the father of four children and told him that the support of his family was quite as important as joining the armed forces.

Donnatelli replied: "I want to be a hero."

Carey informed him the city could no longer carry his family on the welfare rolls and that relief would continue only if his wife, Mrs. Louise Donnatelli, 27, swears out a non-support warrant.

Donnatelli left the mayor promising to have his wife take the necessary court action.

The father of four children, the youngest only two weeks old, wrote to the War Department some time ago, explaining his desire to enlist. He received an answer saying he would be accepted if his wife would sign an affidavit of approval.

Several weeks ago Donnatelli informed Revere Welfare Commissioner Wallace of his plan, but Wallace told him he considered it ridiculous and offered to get the relief recipient a job.

Donnatelli subsequently went to work for a rubber company in Chelsea at $20 a week. He gave up the job at the end of the week because, he said, he found it difficult to get up in the morning.

Strikers Called By Draft Board

FREEMONT, N. Y., Feb. 20 (AP)—Five of the 215 striking employees of the Columbian Bronze Corp., propeller manufacturing firm which has a $1,000,000 Navy contract, have been ordered by their draft board to appear tomorrow for reclassification.

Lawrence Luther, chairman of draft board 717, declared he was acting in accordance with a selective service regulation that defense workers be reclassified after they leave defense work. He said other strikers might be called for reclassification. He denied any attempt was being made to compel them to return to work.

The strike was called Monday over recognition of a newly formed AFL union of machinists and polishers.

Lou Breese Fights Alimony

Louis J. Calabrese, known to dancers and radio fans as Lou Breese, nationally famed orchestra leader, is only "netting $45 a week," he testified in Middlesex Probate Court today in answer to charges of failing to obey a court order that he pay his divorced wife $40 a week.

The action brought by Ina Mai Bentley of Newton, well known in amateur theatrical and musical circles, claimed Breese was $18,000 in arrears. They were divorced in 1926.

Breese, now appearing at a Huntington ave. dance hall, said:

"We're just working here to keep the band happy because this is the slow season."

He denied owing his ex-wife $18,000 and quoted Miss Bentley as saying "the $40 a week was only put in to make the divorce look realistic." He claimed she told him that during a phone conversation a week after the divorce.

"If I had the money, and she had it coming to her," Breese testified, "I would make every effort to pay. But I thought this case was just spite."

Breese remarried in 1933 and has a 9-year-old child. Miss Bentley also remarried in 1938. Her husband, Chester A. Robinson, died accidentally in 1940.

U. S. Reporter Tells Of Heroism in Luzon

By CLARK LEE

WITH THE 31ST INFANTRY IN THE FIELD ON BATAAN PENINSULA, Feb. 19 (Delayed) (AP)—Here's a part of the story of "America's Foreign Legion"—the 31st United States Infantry—and its heroic nine-day battle against the Japanese army at Abucay Hacienda in the Bataan area.

It's a story that glorifies the already sound reputation of this regiment of diverse racial background and equally varied service record. It tells of new deeds of gallantry by oldtimers, veterans of many an Asiatic station, who have been with the outfit since was organized at Manila, Aug. 13, 1916.

It recognizes the spirited conduct of the regiment's younger men, recruits brought from the United States every two years to keep the ranks at fighting strength.

Gen. MacArthur will say that, but for the 31st's grim fight at Abucay, the Japanese might well have split the Bataan defenders before they could assume the strong positions they now hold.

The Hacienda battle proved also for the first time that American soldiers can outfight Japanese—but it was costly proof. The 31st regimental roster is studded with the names of dead, wounded and missing, as well as those of living heroes.

JAP TROOPS FLEE

Although, along with the rest of MacArthur's army, the 31st had had its share of aerial bombing daily from Dec. 8 on, first actual contact with the Japanese came early in January near Layac Junction, while the USAFFE was still withdrawing into prepared positions on Bataan.

After strong artillery preparation, large forces of Japanese infantry drove against Philippine units on the night of Dec. 31.

Lieut. Col. Jasper Brady of Seattle, Wash., gave his third battalion a crisp command:

"Fix bayonets and attack with a rush."

The battalion rose from positions behind an irrigation wall in a rice paddy and charged across the field. The Japanese scattered and fled.

After that first taste of direct conflict, the 31st Regiment was withdrawn to reserve positions on MacArthur's right flank—the very spot the enemy chose for a terrific attack 10 days later.

Youthful Filipino troops experiencing their first combat were in the front lines of this sector, along the south bank of the Labangan river, when the assault began.

MEET WAVE OF FOE

They gave way before overwhelming numbers of Japanese strongly supported by artillery and aircraft. The enemy succeeded in crossing the river and driving a wedge approximately a mile wide and a half mile deep into the USAFFE lines. Some of the defense units were turned to positions at right angles to the front.

Then Col. Charles Steel Davidson, commander of the 31st, received orders to counterattack, push the Japanese out of the salient and restore the position, which had been held by a full division.

The regiment moved up under bombing and shelling and prepared to go into action on a mile-wide front while maintaining contact with the division on its right and other Philippine army units on its left.

The attack was launched at 8:15 a. m., with the 31st's second battalion on the right and its first battalion on the left.

Maj. Lloyd G. Moffett of Denver led the first battalion through a deep ravine and up its opposite slope. A 50-yard advance then was made into an uncut tangle of sugarcane, where the Americans ran headlong into a wave of Japanese attacking the exposed left flank of the division.

MOVE INCH BY INCH

The entire field, one grizzled veteran commented later, was "lousy with Japs."

The second battalion also pressed forward, slashing paths through the sugar cane and advancing single file in the face of heavy machine-gun fire.

Pvt. Elmer P. Bushrig crawled through the rain of bullets in an attempt to rescue a wounded companion. For his bravery he gave his own life.

The second's attack, moving inch by inch, covered only 150 yards to the edge of a second ravine by nightfall, but the first battalion, after its initial brush with the enemy, encountered less resistance.

With Lieut. Edward H. Bowes, of San Francisco, taking direct command, it reached the main Japanese positions on the bank of the Labangan by 4 p. m., closing half of the original gap in the defense lines but leaving a large pocket of enemy resistance on its right rear and flank.

PRIVATE ATTACKS NEST

Next morning the second battalion, aided by fire support from the first, resumed the attack, driving into the second ravine and up the farther side.

Five times the Americans reached the top, but five times they were driven off by withering machine-gun, rifle and mortar fire.

One of the main obstacles was a machine-gun nest pouring fire into the ravine from the left. Pvt. Ronald T. Wangberg volunteered to blast it. He crawled close and tossed a grenade, but missed, thus exposing his own position. He threw a second grenade, which failed to explode, and then was killed.

Clark Lee advised that the rest of his dispatch concerning the 31st Regiment has been delayed. There was no explanation.

300 Refugees Reach N. Y.

NEW YORK, Feb. 20 (AP)—The Portuguese ship Serpa Pinto arrived at quarantine today with more than 300 passengers, mostly Jewish refugees brought from Europe by the joint distribution committee.

(Headquarters of the Third Naval District authorized publication of news of the ship's arrival.)

The vessel left Lisbon and Cast Bianca nearly a month ago with 850 passengers. Of these, 150 left the ship at Jamaica and approximately 400 at Havana.

14 Eliot Writes of MacArthur

ing about the possible need of bringing back our fleet to defend our shores from attack. He does not say from what sort of attack; so far the only attack with which we have been even menaced is a possible stray shell from the small caliber gun of an enemy submarine.

SNEAK RAID POSSIBLE

There is nothing, of course, to prevent the enemy from sending an aircraft carrier to make a sneak raid on one of our coastal cities. This would probably result in the loss of the carrier, but it would also probably result in some damage and loss of life at the point attacked.

The enemy has refrained from doing this so far, presumably because nothing would be more likely to wipe out the last traces of complacency and lethargy and rouse the American people to a pitch of fighting fury.

However, if the enemy should come to believe, as an authority no less eminent than that of the chairman of the naval affairs committee of the Senate, that such a move might result in the American fleet being called home for coast defense, then the short-range military advantages of a series of hit-and-run attacks on our coast might seem more attractive than the long-range psychological disadvantages.

PERIL IN IMPATIENCE

So, if the senator really wishes to keep Boston or Philadelphia, or Los Angeles, from being bombed, he would do well not to suggest to the enemy that this would result in a dislocation of our whole grand strategy and the abandonment of operations of great magnitude about which our enemies are doing a great deal of worrying at this present moment.

Let no American citizen suppose that his Navy is not extremely busy, or that it has abandoned that offensive spirit and purpose which is its tradition and its soul.

Impatience is understandable, but modern war demands preparation, care and forethought, and it is high time that our public men should realize that giving range to their impatience or ignorance in public addresses is playing the enemy's game.

Every ill-considered sentence uttered by any American in official life is picked up by the enemy propaganda machine, used, re-used, twisted and distorted in a worldwide campaign to discredit us with our Allies, to dismay our friends and to terrify those few remaining neutrals whose hope of survival is still in our victory.

In this modern world, with its instantaneous means of communication, words are weapons. To furnish the enemy with words useful for his purpose may prove a worse thing than to furnish him with a cargo of high explosives. (Editor's note—Major Eliot does not discuss the possibility of "saving MacArthur" by obtaining command of the air over the Philippines.)

HARVARD HAS BLACKOUT

Harvard's first blackout test, staged at Eliot House, one of the upper class dormitories near the Charles River, was called a success today as student wardens compared notes and made plans for an all-university blackout in the near future.

Official U. S. Communique

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20 (AP)—War Department communique, No. 116, based on reports received here up to 9:30 a. m., Eastern War Time, follows:

"1—Philippine theater: "Positional fighting continues on all sections of the front in Bataan. Enemy airplanes dropped a number of incendiary bombs on installations behind our lines. An examination of these bombs discloses that the Japanese are using white phosphorus as an incendiary filler.

"Gen. MacArthur, in behalf of his troops, has acknowledged with appreciation the cordial greeting transmitted to him by 60,000 arsenal employees of the Ordnance Department in the United States.

"2—There is nothing to report from other areas."

WAR TRIAL RULING NEAR IN FRANCE

FROM UNOCCUPIED FRANCE, Feb. 20 (AP)—Five former leaders of the old French Third Republic, charged with guilt in France's war defeat, came back this afternoon for a second day of their hearing before the secret and ermine-robed supreme court which the defendants contend is unconstitutional.

After hearing an outburst in which the defendants argued yesterday that they had been prejudged and condemned illegally before the trial the court announced it would rule soon on their contention that under French law they could be indicted only by the Chamber of Deputies and tried only by the Senate.

On trial are former Premier Leon Blum, Edouard Daladier, also a former premier; Gen. Maurice Gamelin, who declined to present a defense; former Air Minister Guy La Chambre, and Pierre Jacomet, former administrator of national defense industries.

Axis Tanks Fall Back in Libya

CAIRO, Feb. 23 (AP)—Axis units, including some tanks, withdrew after exchanging artillery fire with the British some 10 miles south and southeast of Tmimi, the British command announced today.

A communique told of patrol activity and the movement of British mobile columns south of the Tmimi-El Mechili line, but said major Axis forces appeared to be north of that, with El Mechili, strategic desert crossroads, strongly held by the Axis.

2 BACK BAY GIRLS HURT AS TAXI AND TRUCK CRASH

Four persons, including two Back Bay girls, were injured today when a taxicab lost an "argument" with a 10-ton truck at Massachusetts and Columbus aves., South End. Struck on the side, the taxi nearly overturned, severely jostling its occupants. Most seriously hurt was Betty Adams, 22, of Marlborough st., Back Bay and South Carver, held at the City Hospital with numerous contusions.

Marjorie McSwain, 20, of the same address, suffered cuts and bruises. The taxi driver, Stephen Margolian of Columbus ave., was treated for minor bruises.

Crash Fatal to Marlboro Man

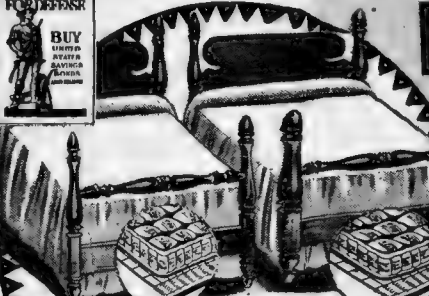

FRAMINGHAM, Feb. 20—Crushed when his auto rammed a parked trailer-truck on the Worcester Turnpike, Manley E. Trombley, 27, of Winter st., Marlboro, died at the Framingham Union Hospital early today of head and chest injuries. The victim's car was jammed under the trailer section of the truck so far that it had to be pulled free by a tow truck before he could be removed.

Harvard Man Finds Sun Has Million-Degree Heat

PUEBLA, Mexico, Feb. 20 (AP)—A "queer beast," as he called it, namely a temperature of 1,000,000 degrees in the pearly-white corona surrounding the sun, hundreds of thousands of miles out from its surface, was reported today by Donald H. Menzel, Harvard observatory.

The sun's surface temperature is only about 10,000 degrees Fahrenheit. Yet the evidence of the unbelievable heat outside Dr. Menzel said, is unassailable. His report was made to the Inter-American Astrophysical Congress which is dedicating Mexico's new national observatory at Tonanzintla. The evidence is in lines of the spectrum, which shows definite proof of iron particles in this sun-halo which have lost just half of their outer coat of electrons. Only extraordinary heat can do that.

THINLY-SCATTERED HEAT
Such heat exists deep inside the sun. The explanation for the corona temperature now is that these particles, not only iron but other common chemicals, are ejected from the depths, through the comparatively cool surface of the sun without themselves cooling.

They are thinly scattered in the corona, and hence are unable to sear the faces of humans, as their rays would do if they were concentrated.

Partial confirmation of their existence is found in temperatures a few hundred miles above the sun's surface which are twice as hot as the solar face. Dr. Menzel said the million-degree heat far out from the sun was only one of several "queer beasts," events astronomers can scarcely believe.

MEAN END OF WORLD?
The end of the world can now be forecast as burning up from a tremendous rise in the sun's heat, if a new analysis of stars like the sun stands up, as reported today by Dr. Henry Norris Russell, Princeton University.

Oddities In the News

FARMER PLAYS PRANKS

SUMMERLAND, Cal., Feb. 20 (AP)—Those giant letters an Army flier spotted on a hillside overlooking Santa Barbara channel weren't the work of a fifth columnist after all. It was nothing but Joe Nunes. The playful plowman had wound up his day's work with a flourish by furrowing out the letters of his first name.

SOLVES TIRE PROBLEM

DALLAS, Tex., Feb. 20 (AP)—A man came into L. A. Fults' store with his wife and three children and said he'd just sold his car because he couldn't get tires. He bought five new bicycles. Then the family pedaled away.

MAN FOR THE JOB

SANTA FE, N. M., Feb. 20 (AP)—For years, Supreme Court Clerk Herbert Gerhart nurtured a rubber tree in the court building foyer. It soared 15 feet under his care. At last, he has been rewarded! "Perhaps I can tap it for a tire or two," beamed Gerhart, as they named him chairman of the county tire rationing board.

JAPPS CHANGES HIS NAME

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill., Feb. 20 (AP)—Edward J. Jappa, 20, thought his surname was all right until Pearl Harbor. So, with the permission of city court, he now uses the name "Sinai," his mother's name after her remarriage.

Rope Cigarettes Bring 2-4 Cents All Over Germany

NEW YORK, Feb. 20 (INS)—Real "rope cigarettes," made of hemp, are being sold at black market prices of 2 to 10 pfennig (between 2 and 4 cents) each all over Germany, a German "freedom" station reported today.

Here's How to Beat Tire Rationing

SALT LAKE CITY (Wide World Features) Feb. 20—Rubber that grows on bushes out West can be harvested by anyone with a strong set of teeth and persistence unlimited.

John E. Heppler, an old timer who says he's been chewing the rubber from rabbit brush for 65 years, doesn't recommend that anyone try to gnaw out enough for a new set of tires, however.

Heppler and his childhood playmates did it this way out in Sevier County, Utah, about 1877:

They stripped the bark from stalks of rabbit brush, then carefully scraped off a thin, sweet-smelling inner bark. This they chewed, until it became a pulpy mass.

Small bits of rubber about the size of a wheat kernel can be extracted from the pulp.

"After several hours of chewing a boy would have a small handful of pure rubber which, when heated, was used to toughen bowstrings," says Heppler. "We also used the stuff as chewing gum."

Heppler said he couldn't estimate how long it might take a fellow to chew up enough rubber for a set of tires. Probably about a lifetime.

Scare Buying Now Subsiding

NEW YORK, Feb. 20 (AP)—"Scare" buying by consumers who feared there might be shortages of many types of goods in stores later on, appeared to be subsiding this week.

Retail sales averaged 14 to 15 per cent above last year for the country as a whole, Dun & Bradstreet reported, the smallest weekly year-to-year gain since the Christmas shopping season.

In wholesale markets, too, there was a slackening of forward buying interest, the credit agency added.

Burglar Who Refused To Name Pals Jailed

For shieling his accomplices in a series of house robberies in Roxbury and Mattapan last fall, Jacob Goldberg, 17, of Erie st., Dorchester, today began serving a two and one-half year jail sentence.

Goldberg confessed to the burglaries on his arrest last December and was given two months probation on condition he name his pals. When Probation Officer John J. Barter informed Judge James C. Donnelly in Suffolk Superior Court of the boy's refusal to "squeal," the jail sentence was imposed.

18 Junior Army to Get New Fitness Course

BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN, FRIDAY, FEB. 20, 1942

Two big features, an elementary first aid and a physical fitness course, are ready for presentation to the 13,000 recruits of the Junior Victory Army of New England.

The first aid course will begin Sunday in the Boston Sunday Advertiser. The physical fitness course will start Tuesday in the Evening American.

Both these series of lessons will prove interesting, instructive and valuable to parents and adults in general as well as to children.

The physical course was prepared especially for the Junior Army by Joseph McKenney, associate director of physical education in Boston public schools and for years the idol of Boston College athletics.

McKenney, an expert in his field, is former football captain and coach of the Eagles and was named to his present position in 1935. In the same year he was appointed to the Boston Finance Commission. He was one of the greatest athletes produced in New England, having won letters in practically all sports, and starting in Brighton High School athletics as well as at B. C.

QUIZ FOLLOWS COURSE

Consisting of 14 lessons, the first aid course will be illustrated by photographs and sketches.

The introduction or foreword to these lessons will be published in the Sunday Advertiser. The lessons beginning Monday will follow each day in the Daily Record.

At the end of the course there will be a 20-point quiz with answers published a day later. This will enable all students of the course to give themselves or their friends examinations.

The first aid course will be the same as that presented to the San Francisco Junior Victory Army by the San Francisco Call Bulletin.

It was written especially for Junior Army members, their parents and their friends who want to learn the rudiments of first aid.

RED CROSS APPROVED

Each lesson was approved by first aid experts and compiled from authoritative sources approved by the Red Cross, Civilian Defense Council and other agencies concerned with first aid phases of the civilian defense program there.

While interesting and informative, the lessons should not be taken as a substitute for practical and actual training by Red Cross and other qualified instructors.

Recruits of the Junior Army and other students of the two courses should study, then clip and paste each lesson in a scrapbook for future reference. It will prove valuable. None should be omitted.

The first aid introduction in the Sunday Advertiser will show what

Junior Victory Army Platform

30-Day Sentence

In Air Warden Attack

Frank Yashtinsky, 31, of Barton St., West End, was sentenced to one month today for striking an air raid warden during Boston's black-out test. Yashtinsky appealed and Judge Daniel J. Gillen in municipal court ordered him held in $300.

According to Max J. Shivek, 57, of Elmhurst st., Dorchester, Yashtinsky, a six-foot, 195-pound baker, struck and knocked him down when he told the baker to move off the street during the test.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Feb. 20 (AP)—Two Negroes sentenced in the Scottsboro case have been denied paroles by the Alabama parole board.

The board made no comment in turning down yesterday clemency applications of Clarence Norris, serving life, and Charlie Weems, sentenced to 75 years.

They are two of nine Negroes arrested on charges resulting from alleged attacks on two white women on a freight train near Scottsboro, Ala., in 1931. Three others are still in prison, while four of the group were freed.

McDaniel, Last Singapore Reporter, Reaches Java

LONDON, Feb. 20 (AP)—Reuters reported today from Batavia that C. Yates McDaniel, Associated Press correspondent and last American newspaperman to leave Singapore before its fall, had arrived in Batavia, Netherlands East Indies.

(The last message received received from McDaniel by the AP in New York was filed from Singapore at 4:45 a. m. EWT Feb. 13 and said he was aboard a ship in Singapore harbor under heavy attack by Jap war planes.)

The Reuters dispatch said McDaniel was among a party of newspapermen who had "just turned up in the N. E. I." but did not give their port of debarkation.

McDaniel's party left Singapore Feb. 13, Reuters said, and their ship was bombed heavily just as it left.

THEY TRAMP OVERLAND

"The party managed to find their way in one of the ship's boats to a small tropical island," Reuters said, "where they got a junk and sailed toward Sumatra."

"They found the mouth of a river and went up it as far as they could. Then they trekked overland until they established contact with Dutch troops who led them to British forces in North Sumatra."

"Finally the whole party was taken on board a British warship. On arrival in Batavia the party was intact."

CHINESE GIRL IN PARTY

Reuters said the group was under the direction of Capt. Henry Steel of the South Staffordshire regiment attached to the public relations office at Singapore. It included Flight Lieut. Downer of the Air Ministry News Service and Doris Lim, a Chinese girl from Shanghai who was an assistant to a Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer-moviehouse newared crew.

The dispatch said others in the party "paid high tribute to Min Lim, who never uttered a whimper, always was busy and bandaged the wounded and made tea."

The Reuters report said British troops and civilian evacuees from Singapore were trickling through to the Indies in such numbers that a special office had been established in Batavia to assist them. They were said to be arriving by yachts, native sampans and other small craft.

MARGARET ANN AND MRS. JOHN BARRETT
$18.75 in Pennies Buys Youngster $25 Bond

"Remember Pearl Harbor." Little Margaret Ann Barrett of Mozart st., Jamaica Plain, despite the fact that she is just two years old, will remember.

On Dec. 7, 1941, she was a patient at the Boston City Hospital. She was quite ill.

On Jan. 1, 1942, she was discharged. She will remember Pearl Harbor. She will remember that she has two uncles in the service of Uncle Sam. They are John Deering and James Deering. The former is in the Marines and the latter in the Navy. They reside in West Third st., South Boston.

With mummy's help she started to save her pennies. Today, again with mummy's help, she brought $18.75 in pennies to the cashier's office of the Boston American in payment of a $25 bond.

Little Margaret Ann will REMEMBER PEARL HARBOR. Do YOU, Mr. and Mrs. AMERICAN?

Insurance Employees Buy Bomber Bonds

organization the BUY-BOMBERS-WITH-BONDS plan has been greeted with enthusiasm. That is shown by another item in Mr. Simmons' letter:

"Approximately 400 of our people are now availing themselves of this opportunity and this number should increase rapidly in the coming months.

"This morning we received a report from our Brooklyn office stating that 100 per cent of the employees of that office are now using the plan."

PROTECT SAVINGS

Insurance companies must invest wisely to protect the savings of their policyholders. Bear that in mind as you read what Mr. Simmons said about BUYING BONDS.

"The company, also, is buying its full quota of Series G. Defense Bonds—its holdings now aggregate $100,000. Purchases of these bonds by corporations are limited to $50,000 in any one year. If this limit were raised I am sure it would increase sales substantially.

"All people should be encouraged to form the habit of saving some of their income regularly, and THERE IS NO SAFER INVESTMENT THAN BONDS OF THE U. S. GOVERNMENT. "WE HEARTILY COMMENT THE WORK YOUR PAPERS ARE DOING IN PROMOTING THE SALE OF THESE BONDS." If anyone had any doubts and no TRUE AMERICAN would have... the judgment of a leading insurance official that BONDS are the SAFEST investment in the world, should dispel them.

The UNSELFISH DRIVE IN MASSACHUSETTS TO BUY BOMBERS was boosted further with the pledge of FIFTY THOUSAND DOLLARS by the International Brotherhood of Firemen and Oilers, American Federation of Labor, Local No. 3.

These men who work deep in the bowels of the ships plowing wintry ocean waters know what BOMBERS mean in AMERICA's battle against the aggressors. Many know from cruel personal experience that A BOMBER MEANS THE DIFFERENCE BETWEEN LIFE AND DEATH for those stalwart men daring death daily as they man ships taking cargoes to our FIGHTING FORCES BEYOND THE SEAS.

THEY WELCOME CHANCE

They KNOW and they welcome the chance to DO SOMETHING TO HELP BUY BOMBERS.

FROM Gen. McARTHUR'S BE-LEAGUED FORCES ON BATAAN PENINSULA... FROM THE COURAGEOUS DEFENDERS OF JAVA... FROM WHEREVER UNSELFISH MEN BATTLE THE FORCES OF AGGRESSION... The cry goes up: "GIVE US PLANES, GIVE US BOMBERS! WE CAN WIN WITH BOMBERS!"

Your course in face of these pleas is plain:

BUY BONDS! BUY STAMPS! BUY BOMBERS WITH BOMBS!

FATE OF BURMA ROAD HANGS ON RIVER DRIVE

RANGOON, Burma, Feb. 20 (AP)—This city, which in normal times boasts a population of almost 500,000, was half-deserted today as British troops fought to stem a Japanese invasion on the banks of the narrow Bilin river, 80 miles to the northeast.

Last reports indicated the British were standing their ground in the face of heavy attacks, but Rangoon was prepared to hear at any hour that the invaders had forced a crossing of the stream.

Loss of the Bilin river line probably would mean that the British would have to fall back upon the Sittang river, 30 miles west, and last natural barrier protecting Rangoon.

The Sittang is only 20 miles from Pegu, 50 miles north of Rangoon on the railway connecting this port with the Burma supply road to China.

Japs Don Burma Garb

To Scout on Allies

By DANIEL DELUCE

ON THE BILIN RIVER FRONT, Burma, Feb. 18 (Delayed), (AP)—Jap forces engaged by the British in the offensive along the lower Bilin river are using bicycle scouts dressed in native Burmese costumes, the British asserted today. (Similar reports came from the British during the Japanese drive through Malaya.)

First accounts from British officers and men who fought near Duiyzeik, across the Salween river west of Paan, before it was evacuated early Sunday also described how the enemy fired tracer bullets at night trying to make the defenders reveal their positions.

The Japanese, dressed in khaki and wearing peaked caps, concentrated in detachments of 200 to 1000 and advanced only at night, following jungle trails or keeping close in the cover of wooded hills. Occasionally they were guided by Burmese natives.

Details of how the Japanese attack, which began Feb. 11, finally overran fiercely-fighting Indian infantry now can be revealed.

The Baluchis held their ground until 6 a. m. on Feb. 12, when they were running out of ammunition. The enemy then withdrew to an outer ring about the defending position and began heavy artillery and mortar fire supported by dive-bombing attacks.

Another attack then was launched with the Japs holding a numerical superiority of at least 1 to 1. In hand-to-hand fighting heavy casualties were inflicted on both sides. But at last the Baluchis were overwhelmed.

One Baluchi officer who escaped after being taken prisoner said he saw a full Japanese battalion, complete with mules, infantry and guns, marching in column formation.

The troops were said to be highly-trained regulars who had an excellent system of communications with supporting aircraft.

This officer, who was defending the flank of a British position with a small force, was attacked by two companies, which lost at least 10 men in killed alone.

Left with only a few men, the officer executed a withdrawal, only to run into fresh enemy companies. The officer later eluded his captors.

22 FIRST ACID TEST DUE JAPS AS THEY TRY JAVA THRUST

Arrival of Yankee Troops at East Indies Treasure Storehouse Strengthens Defense Against Invasion

WITH American land troops bolstering United Nations forces in Java, the crush of Japan's plundering army toward that No. 1 prize of the East Indies appears to be due for its first acid test.

This test apparently had begun today, as Batavia announced the Japs had landed on the island of Bali, one mile off the Java coast.

Our troops thus join the doughty Dutch in defense of the strategically located, productive key-stone of the 3,000-mile arc of the East Indies archipelago.

Its incredibly productive volcanic ash soil supports 48,000,000 persons, making it the most densely populated corner of the earth.

The Dutch have long known their Japanese treasure storehouse was coveted by Japan. They've made the best preparations in the whole southwest Pacific to keep it safe.

THEY didn't depend on tenuous communication lines to supply the armed forces guarding the island. Instead they established a modern arms factory at Bandung, where small arms, ammunition and field guns are manufactured. They have three shipyards at Soerabaya, employing 20,000 men to rush construction of an augmented fleet of fast, hard-hitting torpedo boats.

The mountainous backbone of Java, which includes a dozen active volcanoes, is the main defense line. The highway net winds through mountain passes, and an invader would pay a heavy price for advances through such terrain. The population, packed 800 to the square mile, might offer evacuation problems. Unless removed from battle zones, the civilian refugees might hamper military movements on the roads.

THE Dutch have a compact but powerful navy of five cruisers, eight destroyers, 21 submarines, 12 minelayers and a lot of torpedo boats, estimated at close to 100. Composition of the fleet indicates a defense plan of mining sea approaches and using light, fast force to raise bob with any troop convoys approaching the island.

Official Dutch sources placed the air force strength at 600 bombers and fighters in January. American, British and Australian planes have reinforced the air force recently. Dutch commercial airlines had established a network of landing fields over the island, and the military has added a number of new and secret air bases.

THE army, of mixed Dutch and native troops, numbers 330,000. It's a tough, able force, carrying a high percentage of mechanized equipment and has been strengthened recently by Australian forces.

The chief lack is in anti-tank guns and fighter airplanes, the same weakness that has contributed most to the severe losses suffered by the United Nations in the southwest Pacific. The island's defense depends on whether plane reinforcements get there in time. A great deal hinges on Java. It's the outpost now, guarding Australia and the main Allied bases in the whole area. Its loss would be a terrific setback, not only an strategic ground, but because its vast natural resources would greatly aid the Japanese war effort.

HER WAR AID

Remembers Wake Isle With Stamps

It'll Help—Tiny Toby Shane, 2, of Washington D. C., whose cousin, Marine Sergt. George Shane, was captured at Wake Island, does her part toward aiding his release by buying defense stamps, a step toward U. S. victory. She's staying in Matapan with grandparents.

Canadian Tanks—Montreal locomotive works goes into production of tanks... and here's a group of the armored herd almost ready to take their place in the battle line... for democracy.

SAVE MacARTHUR NOW! America needs the military genius of this provenly great general who has held out day after day, week after week against the might of Japan. Some say MacArthur cannot be rescued. But has anybody really tried to do it?

SO YOU'RE CRYING—!

MORE powerfully than words this cartoon illustrates how extremely selfish it is for any citizen to cry over defense costs while, in many parts of the world, Americans are dying for the flag by sea, land and air.

The truth is no REAL American begrudges money for airplanes, battleships, tanks, ammunition and the many other things needed to hasten the day of victory for the United States.

But boondoggling and bureaucracy—that is an entirely different matter. Such waste has nothing to do with winning the war. In fact, it could prevent our winning it. So most Americans are naturally and righteously opposed to boondoggling and bureaucrats.

In converting the country to a war-time basis, the first thing that the Government ought to do is to destroy overlapping and duplicating bureaus and boards in Washington.

Some of these are nothing but nests of political parasites, and havens for left-wing schemers.

They are a burden on the people, who are willingly investing their earnings in Defense Bonds and Stamps, but who quite understandably object to seeing their money go to support political fat cats and radical busybodies.

As the Washington Post recently pointed out, this duplication and waste and misuse of government offices are not only "APPALLING" but, in many instances, they have become almost a public scandal.

After an exhaustive investigation, the Post laid its finger on some of these organizations and said:

"The National Youth Administration is absolutely superfluous. Transfer the youth defense training feature to the United States Office of Education, doing the same thing."

"The C. C. C. today is without function. There is not a boy on its rolls who can't get a job."

"The Railroad Retirement Board is moving to Chicago. There is no reason for its existence. Merge it with Social Security."

"The R. E. A. is violating orders from Nelson's office not to conduct unessential projects. Confine it to military purposes."

"The Department of Agriculture can be cut and splendidly trained employees used to greater advantage."

Besides this, a branch of the O. C. D. and part of the Paul McNutt Office of Defense, Health and Welfare Services are DOING THE SAME WORK.

Moreover, the O. C. D. should be gone over with a fine-tooth comb for "parasites."

Get rid of the "screwballs," the "co-ordinators" and the wastebasket scribblers.

This is no time for "private snaps" or civilian payroll parasites or visionaries striving to "make America over."

No person worthy of the name American will ever cry over bona fide defense spending.

But he will most certainly cry at the spectacle of greedy little men trying to entrench themselves in soft jobs, where they can make political hay, while bigger, better men pledge their lives and dollars in an all-out effort to win this war for the United States.

On The Side

O wherever our ages revealing?
Leave that to the registry books!
A man is as old as he's feeling
A woman as old as she looks.
—MORTIMER COLLINS.

WE THINK women are required to give their exact ages on many occasions when "over 21" would serve the purpose. Women's organizations should make a study of this matter and campaign for its reform. . . . "He had entree into the best circles; authors, wits, Hollywood honeys, crooners, editors and bon vivants" is a reference to a fortunate fellow that started me thinking how I was doing on that "best circles" think. I know an author, Gene Fowler; a wit, Arthur "Bugs" Baer; a crooner, Bing Crosby; a Hollywood honey, Olivia De Havilland, and an editor, Wesley Stout. But that bon vivant stops me. But then thinking it over, isn't Clem McCarthy a bon vivant? He has a steak dinner five times a week at Joe Madden's place in midtown Manhattan.

SIDELIGHTS: "What more can the American people do about the war?" is a question now being continually asked. The Denver Post says: "The American people can develop a war spirit that will shock Washington, D. C. out of its complacency. Turn the heat of public indignation on the war blunderers. Quit accepting apologies and alibis and excuses for Jap victories" . . . Zoe and Chloe would be good names for twins. I know a girl named Chloe but never met a Zoe . . . Ever hear the story of a San Francisco man who, tearing a terrific howling in the neighborhood asked his Chinese servant: "What's all that howling about, Wong?" The servant said: "Butcher kill piggee, piggee no like" . . . "No man healthy in mind and body ever wants to work," said Arnold Bennett. When Mr. Bennett felt like working it worried him. He thought he was sick. Boy, my health must be perfect. How I hate work!

PASSING BY: John Kieran. Sportscribe and seemingly the best informed of quiz experts, of Information Please. Kieran first achieved recognition as something unusual in quiz experts when he quickly gave the correct answers to the following: "What is a dodo? A robo? A koto? A yo-yo? A bolo? A locofoco?" . . . Elaine Brandes. Very cute little trinket of Hollywood. Elaine has been on tour selling kisses for defense bonds. The male response is reported terrific. Why don't they sent out Robert Taylor, Tyrone Power, Cesar Romero or Errol Flynn to stir up the feminine trade in defense bonds? I could be wrong, but I think if Robert Taylor offered to kiss any woman who would buy a defense bond, they would have to call out the riot squad to keep the girls in line. . . . L. Wolfe Gilbert. Veteran song writer. His first smash hit was "Waiting for the Robert E. Lee." Since that time he has written several thousand ditties including "Jeannine, I Dream of Liliac Time," "Hitchy Koo," "I Miss My Swiss," "Ramona" and "The Peanut Vendor" . . . Charles Boyer. Brilliant actor. Always turns in a good performance. Recently became an American citizen. Took the Oath of Allegiance on Friday the 13th. Said Mr. Boyer on that occasion: "I like that this happens on the 13th. Thirteen is my lucky number. I was even married on the 13th."

handling our housework should be paid for out of my wife's salary. Certainly a career woman who has abandoned her household duties should not object to paying the wages of the substitute who takes care of those duties" . . . "You say women feminize houses and have them built like boudoirs much to their husband's inconvenience and dismay," writes a Beverly Hills, Cal. matron. "I'm laughing bitterly. Our house, built under my husband's supervision, looks like a combination hunting lodge, business office, golf club locker room and for men only bar."

PLEASE NOTE: Tody Hamilton, Barnum's celebrated press agent, did not suffer from "that foolish vanity called modesty" and described himself on printed matter as: "The cyclone press agent and descriptive epigrammatist. America's representative word-smith. A wild, whirling, tornado of breathing adjective and an inexhaustible mine of glittering epithet" . . . A springer spaniel is so named because he "springs" or causes the birds to fly from cover up into the air where the hunter can get a shot at them.

Our springer has just been "springing" some birds out in the back yard. And every time he causes the birds to fly he looks at me reproachfully as much as to say: "Where's your gun? What's the use of me springing these birds? I might as well be a Pekinese" . . . Naval officers pay for their own uniforms. Washington, D. C. has ruled the gold braid on naval officers' uniforms is jewelry. So the naval men have to pay 10 per cent sales tax on it.

REAL OPINION: What the Nazi army thinks of the Italian army is revealed in the following burlesque Italian army communique which was printed in a German army newspaper and reprinted in Newsweek: "Italian high command communique. On the Tobruk front a large force of Italians attacked one enemy cyclist, causing him to dismount. After heavy and prolonged fighting, they were able to puncture his tires. The front wheel was definitely destroyed, while the destruction of the rear wheel must also be considered probable. The handle bars are in our hands, but possession of the frame is still contested."

Broadway's Voice

LOIS ANDREW JESSEL
PENS FICTION

By Dorothy Kilgallen

NEW YORK, Feb. 20—If there happened to be an Academy Award for "good losers," Bud Abbott and Lou Costello would win it. Several years ago Vincent Lopez refused to play gin rummy and pinochle with them any longer because he was embarrassed by the fact that he always won. The comedians were so hurt by his refusal that they picketed him outside his stage door for days, calling him "unfair to card players" because he wouldn't take any more of their money. . . . Pat Pearson, the young heroine of "Junior Miss," has a favorite tale she spins for anyone who asks about her background. It concerns her mother's distant relationship to the Czar (mama being a Russian ballerina), and how she had to flee for her life at the time of the revolution. When her subject is about to burst into tears of sympathy, Pat confesses it's all a dream-up. . . . Betty Grable is a trifle absent-minded. So George Raft sends her a daily wire, reminding her of her chores for the day. He always concludes with, "And don't forget I'm the guy that loves you."

LOIS ANDREW JESSEL, among her other accomplishments, is a writer, although few know it. She's been turning out fiction, poetry and song lyrics since she was ten years old. None of her works have been submitted to publishers yet, because Lois wants to wait until her style matures. She's now working on two novels. . . . CARMEN MIRANDA Hedy Lamarr owns the most unusual piece of jewelry among all the cinema glamour kids. She had a diamond set in a pronged hairpin, and she wears it directly in the center of her forehead at the beginning of the part in her blue-black hair. It looks very Oriental and usually knocks the beholder for a loop.

CARMEN MIRANDA

WENDELL WILLKIE rates as one of the most considerate men in public life. One night in a local cafe he declined to have his picture taken, then went over to the press agent on three different occasions to apologize. . . . Betty Apple, one of the beauties at La Martinique, used to be a motorcycle daredevil, piloting one of those fiendish machines around the sloped wall of a motor-drome. . . . Ella Logan, the Glasgow glamour girl, may be a Scotch importation, but she majors in Southern cooking and can whip up corn fritters, fried chicken and black-eyed peas as swiftly as any belle below the Mason-Dixon line. . . . It's just pure coincidence that George Jessel and former Mayor James J. Walker exchanged pictures with identical autographs many, many years ago. Both inscriptions read, "To my favorite after dinner speaker."

JACK OAKIE, in his rounds of the cafes, exudes all the good humor and jollity of his screen personality; Lieut. Robert Montgomery cuts as wide a swath and elicits as many sighs in the Stork Club as he ever did on celluloid. . . . Maxie Rosenbloom, at his Hollywood bolero known as "Slapsy Maxie's," has instituted a "torch corner" for those carrying torches. A little sign over the nook proclaims its function, and Maxie says it gets so crowded he thinks he will have to devote two corners to tearful lovers. So far, he says, the most consistent occupants of the moaning alcove have been Ann Sheridan and Martha Raye.

ALTHOUGH HE SIGNS hundreds of autographs nightly at his Broadway restaurant, Jack Dempsey doesn't own a fountain pen and is forever borrowing one from his headwaiter, manager, or other members of the staff. What's more, once he wields a pen in his mighty right, he does something to that point that puts it permanently out of commission for the original owners—unintentionally, but inevitably. . . . Carmen Miranda, who wears such bizarre and colorful costumes on stage at "Sons a' Fun" usually leaves the Winter Garden stage door these nights wearing an ordinary camel's hair coat, like any little chorus girl.

RENEE DeMARCO uses thread—ordinary sewing thread—to keep those curls in place on top of her head. She uses one piece of thread to tie them all together. . . . Lily Pons doesn't like her feet to get cold, so she wears little fur-trimmed boots all through the winter. . . . David Cowles, operator of the Penguin, looks like a penguin, too—in fact, his intimates are allowed to refer to him as "the penguin" more in honor of his appearance than his occupation. . . . William Powell's manner is so lackadaisical that strangers often mistake it for a mild form of non-sobriety.

BOSTON after DARK

By GEORGE HOLLAND

A BIT OF MAJOR-LEAGUE DIPLOMACY will have its happy consequences on the stage of Rindge Auditorium tonight. . . . When Henry O. Delaney became director of dramatics at Rindge Tech a year ago, he broke a years-old tradition and cast girl students from Cambridge High and Latin School in the feminine roles. . . . But the Rindge athletes, on whom Director Delaney had depended for actor-material continued to eschew the drama as being suitable only for less masculine persons. . . . Last year's play was "Night Must Fall," a psychopathic drama.

THIS YEAR, the Rindge drama director again used Cambridge High and Latin girls in the annual offering, but again he was faced with the need of an even more potent lure in coaxing the school's football heroes from their various after-hours retreats in favor of the effete drama. . . . How successful he was will be seen by the program. . . . The two regular tackles of last fall's football team, including Bill Mullins, who plays the leading role, the team's center and one guard—all two-hundred pounders—have parts in the play. . . . The play's title got them out. . . . It is "The Bad Man."

ANOTHER DELANEY, JOHN LACEY DELANEY of the Hurley administration (when he helped liquidate the closed banks) has become the father of a nine-pound boy. . . . Mrs. Delaney, the former Ruth Gallagher, and the babe are thriving. . . . It's the third child, and will be named Thomas Morton Gallagher—after the medical examiner of the Newton district (Mrs. Delaney's papa). . . . Former Senator Joseph Mulhearn is home after a week in Miami.

WE SHALL HAVE to justify Mickey Rooney's pinch-hitting appearance for Bing Crosby last night as an act of pure friendship. . . . The young actor must have an intuitive sense of entertainment values, else he wouldn't have reached the high place he holds as the country's top box-office attraction. . . . And the kid can certainly read. . . . Therefore, after listening to last night's program, there's but one explanation of interpreting that manuscript—friendship.

STAN LAUREL OF LAUREL and Hardy was stricken with a serious larynxal ailment which had him talking in whispers. The Boston Theater appearance of the famous old comedy favorites was doomed the moment Stan learned that recovery would require time. . . . Strangely enough, Laurel and Hardy won their fame in the "silents." . . . Erik Rhodes has a much stronger singing voice than he revealed last season in "Hiya, Gentlemen," and he sings "Night and Day" at the Mayfair most pleasingly. . . . Rhodes has excellent stage presence, although there is nothing remarkable about that. . . . He is one of the most versatile young character actors in the theater, and Boston can remember him as far back as the time of "The Gay Divorcee," in which he played with Fred and Adele Astaire, and in which show, if you've forgotten, "Night and Day," was born. . . . This department believes, if Mr. Rhodes will entertain a suggestion, that his act would be helped greatly if he wore a sack suit. . . . He seems too dressed-up in white tie and tails, and if he must go black and white, the diminished formality of a dinner-jacket would suit him better. . . . His "smart" songs are good, but the lad's pleasing personality is handicapped by his first number, a gigolo bit which calls for the white tie and—we suppose—for the brilliant carnation.

"Night and Day" Highlights His Program

THE RHODES AGENT can book him any place in the assurance that there'll be no call for a refund, but the presence on the same bill of the best dog-act we have seen dwarfs everything else in the show, even the marvelous acrobatic trio, the Del Rios. . . . The dog-act is Bob Williams, a young old-timer with an infectious laugh and a sense of humor, and "Reddie." . . . We thought we remembered Williams and the pup from the distant past. . . . And partly right we were. . . . Williams is the boy who leaped overnight to fame in Earl Carroll's Vanities and "Sketch-Book," a dozen years ago. . . . But "Reddie" isn't the same dog. . . . His daddy, Red Dust, was the canine star of the turn in those days. . . . "Reddie" is "Red Dust's" only son. . . . You will love him.

JEAN MUIR BACK IN FILMLAND

By Louella O. Parsons

Jean Muir

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 20—Jean Muir, who was so concerned with the problems of the masses and her dislike of movies that she walked out of Hollywood, has just put her name to a Warner contract. Most of us felt that Jean, who was young at the time, would realize that our town isn't the worst place in the world and that acting on the screen isn't as unworthy of an artist's talents as she seemed to deem it. Well, Jean is now married and has returned to Hollywood a glamour girl instead of the crusading feminist. In fact, it was Henry Blanke who saw her on the Warner lot and suggested that she would be very good as one of the Sanger Sisters in "The Constant Nymph." So she joins Joan Fontaine and Charles Boyer, and will play one of the mad Sangers, whose antics were so amusing in Margaret Kennedy's best-selling novel. Warners is her alma mater.

MARSHA HUNT

AT THIS WRITING now you see him and now you don't Victor Mature, after being missing for two days, showed up at the 20th Century-Fox studios. If Vic keeps on with these disappearing acts he'll be in the same class as Errol Flynn, former roaming rover from Warner. Vic returned home just in time to get himself fitted for a wardrobe for "Strictly Dynamite," a musical, with Betty Grable and John Payne.

ARE YOU A LITTLE BIT in awe of your cook? We American housewives have been accused of it—but, true or false, "Once Upon a Thursday," based on the servant problem, sounds very funny. M-G-M is making this original story by Isobel Lennart and Lee Gold with an all-feminine cast headed by Marsha Hunt, Marjorie Main, Spring Byington and Virginia Weidler. It is about a swank Long Island household that is turned into a tempest when it is discovered that the upstairs maid has written an "expose" of high society hi-jinks. After that the whole social colony starts catering to the servants out of fear they are nursing viperous authors to their bosoms.

CHATTER IN HOLLYWOOD: Far be it from me to break news in the column to husbands about their wives—but I'm betting script writer George Bruce will be as surprised as Punch to read that his little woman, Mitzie Mackay, is testing at Republic for the femme lead in his story, "Wings of the Dragon!" The reason George isn't on this interesting development is Miss Mackay (or Mrs. Bruce) wanted to get somewhere on her own in her movie career before she broke the news to the head of the house. So she had George Hurrell make some glamour portraits of her—took them to head man, Herbert Yates, and pronto—earned herself a test for her husband's story.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD: The very hottest twosome of the week is Nan Wynon and Van Heflin, who met last Saturday and have had a date every night; Elvise Knox and Paul Hesse will wed Saturday night at the Presbyterian church in Coronado; Jinx Falkenburg and her family, the Chet Laucks, Hedy Lamarr and George Montgomery will motor down for the ceremony; Rod Cameron and Brook Evans, "Louisiana Purchase" lovely, are telling their friends—it's marriage; Virginia O'Brien's 18-year-old sister, Mary, is planning a screen career; David Lewis has gone to New York on a business deal. He has already left Warners, where he was associate producer for some of their most successful pictures.

GLAMOROUS BETTY GRABLE
Has Role in "Strictly Dynamite"

Woolley Adds to 'Man Who Came to Dinner' Laurels

Met's Version Grand Portrayal

"THE MAN WHO CAME TO DINNER," Warners' adaptation of the two-year-old Broadway comedy starring Bette Davis, Ann Sheridan, Monty Woolley and Jimmy Durante, directed by William Keighly from the Sigmund Freud script. At the Met.

By PEGGY DOYLE

That man who'd rather be blighted than President is burning up a whole acre of nice folk and dynamiting the Metropolitan Theater with laughter this week. He is the original... and not a celluloid copy... "Man Who Came to Dinner." Resisting the unthinkable temptation to cast the lean and handsome Cary Grant in the wheelchair role, the Brothers Warner did the obvious and inspired when they assigned Monty Woolley, who created the title role in the Kaufman-Hart stage comedy that ran two years on Broadway.

Others have aped or re-designed Professor Woolley's the way Yale's Mr. Chips in reverse before life and a beard began for him at 40) poison-pen portrait of "the man who invented Christmas... and who receives presents from Shirley Temple, William Lyon Phelps, Billy Rose, Ethel Waters, Somerset Maugham." Even Alexander Woolcott, to whom the authors dedicated their greatest stage hit, "for reasons that are nobody's business," tried portraying himself and wound up admitting Woolley was more Woolcott than Woolley. The old master of the retort blood-curdling must swoon with satisfaction at the Warners' expert screen version of the play that celebrated his sardonic barbs, his celebrity-collecting talent and his allergy for the innocent bystander.

Monty Woolley has preserved the shockingly fascinating Sherry Whiteside in celluloid at his vitriolic best. The glittering names of Bette Davis, the screen's First Actress, and Ann Sheridan, Hollywood's synonym for oomph, top Woolley's in the billing but the old boy with the beaver is still the star of the piece.

Not that Newton's favorite local girl who made good will go into a snit at this denouement. She herself wangled the Warners into giving her the secretary role against their advice and knowing full well it was a supporting, not a starring, role just because she liked it for what it was... a nice, juicy character part.

She's as well as Maggie Cutler to whom arsenic-and-old-face Sherry Whiteside is "a selfish, petty egomaniac who would see his mother burned at the stake if that was the only way he could light his cigarette."

Ann Sheridan's voluptuous vamp, Lorraine Shelton, who'd like to get her hands into Maggie's collar, does a smooth job of interpreting Sherry's exasperating, alluring.

MONA BARRIE is co-starred with John Boles, who recently made a terrific hit with Mayfair patrons during a singing engagement there, in "Road to Happiness." This warmly-welcomed Monogram picture signaling Boles' return to the screen is teamed with "I Give My Life," newest Danielle Darrieux starrer, for the Normandie's new bill, starting Sunday.

transparent Blossom Girl. She also keeps the male patrons teetering on seat-edge every instant she's on screen. Mary Wickes, on the other hand, is the more durable than devastating Nurse Preen who trades temperature readings for insults from her eyebrow-lifting patent.

Jimmy Durante, as Banjo, whose brain works with mosquito-filting speed, is a joy, and so are Billie Burke, as Sherry's long-suffering, bird-brained hostess; Reginald Gardiner's Piccadilly pen-pusher, and the rest of an excellent supporting cast.

Shirley Temple Hit At Scollay, Modern

The Scollay and Modern Theaters' holiday week program, starting today, teams the Shirley Temple comeback picture, "Kathleen," and "Sundown," film version of the adventure serial appearing in a national weekly with Gene Tierney, Bruce Cabot, George Sanders, Harry Carey and Reginald Gardiner.

NUTRITION FACTS YOU SHOULD KNOW

ABOUT MEAT

Make it a rule to serve liver once or twice every week. Beef, lamb and pork liver are excellent from the standpoint of flavor, as well as of nutrition, and are less expensive than calf's liver. Try squeezing the juice of half a lemon over the liver the next time you prepare it. Then roll in flour and fry or broil.

MRS. ROOSEVELT SAYS:

'Adopt' Service Boys

By ELEANOR ROOSEVELT

NEW YORK CITY, Thursday—Yesterday, at lunch, I enjoyed very much having an opportunity to talk briefly with Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Elmhirst. They have been on a very long trip through the South, up the West Coast and back through the central part of our country. They visited agricultural groups everywhere and told the story of condition in England among similar people.

Dr. Adolph Kelle, of Geneva, Switzerland, also came to lunch and told us something of his work with the church groups in the various European countries. I always marvel at what these men accomplish in war-torn countries and how they stand up under the strain.

I have a feeling that in this country, we are still largely in the stage of anxiety over a future which is certainly uncharted. Some of these people from the countries where the future is certainly more uncertain than it is here, have come to let upon it as an adventure and to accept the uncertainty, not only with stoicism, but with cheerful optimism.

After dinner, I took the night train to New York City and am spending some time today at the Brooklyn Naval Hospital with Franklin, Jr. It is grand to see him recovering. Of course, with returning health, his annoyance at being in the hospital is making him very restless.

I have just received from the USO office in Savannah, Ga., an account of what they call their "Adopted Son Plan." I think the same thing might be done in other places. They found that the less aggressive among the service men, coming in from the Savannah Air Base, Fort Screven and Camp Stewart, made few personal contacts in the city. The USO staff is now recommending a boy to an individual family and for the time he is in camp nearby, that family becomes his family.

He may drop in whenever he wants without special invitation. This, of course, means that he is welcome to take pot-luck meals with the family, to get a bath, and to lounge around as he pleases. I think this must be a much prized type of hospitality.

JUST WHAT IS Evangeline MILK

It is pure cow's milk having more than 50% of the water removed by evaporation at a moderate temperature. It is sealed in cans and sterilized just as condensed milk is sterilized. There has been nothing added to it, only water taken away. It is twice as rich as original cow's milk having 44 calories in one ounce instead of 21. Many doctors throughout New England have endorsed Evangeline Milk for baby feeding. Used by New England's best cooks, too. Has hundreds of uses in home cooking.

Long Warns Restaurant Owners on Food Tax Payments

30 Henry F. Long, the state tax commissioner, provided restaurant owners with a fresh headache today when he warned that the 7000 odd who have not yet filed January returns on receipts from the meal tax face a fine of $5 daily. Commr. Long said only about half the state's eating places have made returns on the first month's operation or 15 per cent on meals costing more than $1.

U. S. CAN LOSE, CLUBWOMEN TOLD

Apathetic Americans and die-hard isolationists who favor a negotiated peace with Hitler were the targets today of Mrs. John L. Whitehurst, national president of the Federation of Women's Clubs, who addressed 1500 Massachusetts members of the federation at the Hotel Bradford.

"There is a possibility of losing this war, and do you know what this means, women?" she asked. She predicted that if we fail to fight this war to a final victory freedom would be lost to the world for generations, giving way to darkness and enslavement.

Japs Land on Bali Island, Only One Mile From Java

miles from Bali to Java's big Soerabaja naval base.

A Dutch communique said succinctly:

"In connection with enemy action directed against Bali, vital points on Bali have been destroyed, and naturally strong action is being taken against landings which the enemy is carrying out."

Imperial headquarters at Tokyo announced Japanese troops landed at dawn today on the Portuguese-Dutch island of Timor, east of Bali at the end of the southern chain of Dutch islands and just northwest of Darwin, Australia, which Japanese planes raided intensively twice yesterday, with a third alarm today.

(Tokyo said that the Timor expedition had been ordered to oust British Imperial and Dutch troops in the Portuguese half of the island. Australian and Dutch forces had taken positions in Timor early in the war in anticipation of Japanese attack.

(Tokyo sought to assure Portugal that the Japanese would be withdrawn when (and if) the United Nations troops were expelled.

(Summarizing results of their assault yesterday on Darwin, the Japanese declared that a 5000-ton Australian auxiliary cruiser, two destroyers, a sub-chaser and nine transports were destroyed and, in addition, that another destroyer was heavily damaged. The Japanese also claimed destruction of 26 planes along with military and naval establishments.

(The Australians have acknowledged considerable damage to ships, buildings and airdromes, along with casualties of 15 dead and 24 wounded. Six of the 93 Japanese fighters and bombers which delivered the third raid yesterday in two waves were shot down and the bombing accuracy of the others was impaired.)

The Dutch news agency, Aneta, said:

"The presence of the Japanese warcraft and troopships off Bali may indicate the expected enemy attempt to invade Java."

MAY STRIKE AUSTRALIA

If it was not that, or at least a hint to facilitate attack in another quarter, it suggested (especially in conjunction with the Timor operations) a bold attempt to outflank Java for an invasion lunge at northern Australia, centering perhaps on Darwin, naval base capital of Australia's northern territory.

Coinciding with the heavy raids on Darwin, the Japanese struck at Java's naval base and air field.

Ten Japanese planes—five bombers and five fighters—were shot down during Wednesday's and yesterday's raids at Soerabaja. It was announced by the United Nations headquarters for the southwest Pacific, situated in Java.

Expeditionary forces of the United Nations, including American and Australian troops, have moved to battle stations in that rich, central island of the N. E. I.

The Dutch communique said results of Japanese air raids yesterday on several parts of Java were "inversely proportional" to the effort expended and "on the whole material losses were unimportant and very few persons were killed."

The Japanese appeared to have concentrated on airdromes, the tactical preliminary to invasion.

In defense of airdromes near Buitenzorg and Bandoeng, the communique said, four interceptor planes were shot down by the Japanese but only one of the pilots was killed. One Japanese plane was downed for certain and two others were probably destroyed. Other airdromes, in the Oosthoek (east corner) region of the island, were machine-gunned.

A foothold for the Japanese on Bali has put the Japanese on land only one mile from their chief goal in their East Indies invasion—this citadel of Java which is separated from Bali only by a shallow channel.

The Japanese thus would be implanted on springboard bases flanking Java from Bali on the east, Sumatra on the west and Celebes and Borneo on the north.

Bali, a mountainous island of 2095 square miles, is populated by 1,200,000 Indonesians who are the most expert rice growers of the Indies archipelago. It has only 400 European inhabitants.

1500 COAST JAPS FIGHT EVACUATION

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 20 (AP)—Fifteen hundred Nisei—second generation Japanese—Americans—organized the United Citizens League last night preparatory to a fight to prevent evacuation of professedly loyal aliens and citizens of Japanese descent inland from the Pacific Coast.

"We need action and need it now," declared Larry Tajiri, former Washington, D. C., correspondent for a Japanese news service. "We are loyal to the American flag, but race hatreds are being stirred up now in the Fascist pattern."

Kay Suganara, produce merchant, said:

"If the Army and Navy say we are a menace, let's get out. But if it's merely a question of fighting politicians that would gain favor by hopping on 'those defenseless Japs' we should fight them to the last ditch."

Nearly 150 Japanese aliens recently have been taken into custody in California and many official and civic groups have demanded that every Japanese be moved inland at least 200 miles.

Influx of Japs Causes Furor in Many States

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 20 (INS)

—Mass evacuation of alien Japanese from coastal areas of the Pacific Coast was becoming a serious problem today, particularly in California, and was causing a furor in other western states.

In central California, agriculturists in the rich Tulare County farming areas rose up in arms when throngs of Japanese farmers and fishermen moved in on the local Japanese colonies.

In Orosi the citizens held a mass meeting and demanded that the newly arrived aliens be prohibited from that area on grounds of public safety.

They hinted possible violence and demanded that protection be provided for "the public safety and for their own (the aliens) safety."

Automobile caravans of upward of 150 Japanese were reported as far east as Texas, but their destination thus far, with the exception of the Tulare County "invasion," remains unknown.

Colorado and New Mexico authorities have been outspoken in their opposition to any influx of Japanese, especially farmhands.

Harvard Bans Big Battle Of Confetti

Harvard's colorful confetti battle held in connection with the June Class Day exercises must bow to the government's demand for the conservation of paper this year, William G. Morse, university purchasing agent, announced today in the Harvard Crimson, undergraduate paper.

The gay 10-minute festival, during which $450 of confetti is thrown annually, is one of the few Harvard Stadium exercises which have withstood Morse's pruning knife thus far.

This year, however, the university expects a much smaller attendance at the Commencement and consequently less will be contributed to meet the expenses incurred.

Advances of the traditional Harvard-Yale baseball game to an earlier date this year has robbed the big senior splash of some of its gayety.

"It should be a matter for serious consideration by the senior class whether they should try to hold the Stadium exercises at all," Morse added. "I'm quite willing to co-operate with them if they want to plan something even though I disapprove."

Beauty

NOT ONLY your most glamorous evening gowns, but your everyday sense of well-being demands complete good grooming . . . and today, with sheer hose, a necessity even for the most humble working girl, the problem of ugly superfluous hair is one which is recognized and dealt with universally. Today Arline Gould, in a frank but helpful article, tells you of a new grooming kit which will assure you that you can be as self-confident as Loretta Young, pictured above, is in her Grecian revealing gown.

NEW GROOMING KIT ENDS SUPERFLUOUS HAIR WORRY

By ARLINE GOULD

TODAY I'd like to tell you about an aid to grooming that I think deserves four stars. It may not be a glamorous subject, but we'll bet hundreds of women will be thrilled to hear of a razor scientifically designed for them.

A great many women still prefer the razor to depilatories for removing superfluous hair, despite the excellent preparations on the market.

This new one is designed for taking unsightly hair off the legs and armpits. We all know how we have lacerated ourselves trying to get at the narrow and curving surface of the underarm. Well, that trouble is over.

Because this razor has a special blade only one-half inch long on one side, and let me tell you it works like a charm. The other cutting edge, which you will use to keep your legs smooth, is seven-eighths of an inch in width.

Another slick feature of this dainty implement is that it is perfectly balanced in weight, so that it is very easily wielded. You will be amazed at the difference when you try it.

With this contribution to our comfort comes another thing we have needed . . . a special shaving cream which acts as a protection for your skin and leaves it soft, smooth, cool and clean. One jar will last from six months to a year and you should have it.

Oh, we almost forgot one of the most important differences. You can use a deodorant immediately after shaving with this razor. Incidentally, the same firm makes a very good and inexpensive one.

Try this two-faced razor, and the cream that goes with it, and you will understand why its makers offer to refund the price without question if you are not satisfied.

Arline Gould will tell you where to get this grooming kit if you call her at Liberty 4000, weekdays except Saturdays; or write her, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope, at the Boston Evening American.

NEWS FOR MODERN WOMEN

FOOD

By Martha Lee

ECONOMY IS THE WATCHWORD these days whether we're preparing family meals or friendly get-togethers for our friends. And one of the thriftiest and appetizing meals we have seen recently features a baked meat sandwich—lavish in flavor and as full of color as gay bunting. Rich brown meat, seasoned with a sly hint of onion, is smothered between layers of snowy biscuit dough and topped with a crisp, oven-brown crust to make a one-dish meal. Served with a thick, rich tomato sauce and whole green beans seasoned with butter or margarine, baked meat sandwich is a worthy center of a Victory Dinner.

Menus like costumes are incomplete without an accent. To top off this pennywise meal on a springlike note, we suggest Cherry Quickie. For sheer economy, flavor, color and ease of preparation this dessert will take priority over every other. A dash of whipped cream, a bit of rich top milk, a spoonful of cherry sauce or a scoop of your favorite ice cream served over this pudding will make it a popular family dessert.

BAKED MEAT SANDWICH
Biscuit Batter:
3 cups sifted flour
4 tsp. baking powder
3 tsp. salt
6 tbsp. shortening
1½ cups milk
Sift flour, baking powder and salt together. Cut or rub in shortening. Add milk to make a thick batter, stirring only until flour is moistened. Into a greased, flat utility pan (8 x 11 x 1½ inches) spread ½ the batter. Over it spread meat mixture. Cover with remaining batter. Bake in a moderately hot oven (400 deg. F.) 45 minutes. Cut in squares. Serve hot with tomato sauce. Makes 8 servings.

Meat Mixture:
1½ cups ground, cooked meat
1 egg
¼ to ½ cup milk
1½ tsp. salt
¼ tsp. pepper
Combine meat, egg, milk and seasonings. Mix well.

TOMATO SAUCE
2 cups canned sliced fresh tomatoes

1 bay leaf
4 cloves
2 slices onion
1 tsp. sugar
1 sprig parsley
4 peppercorns
¼ tsp. celery salt
2 tbsp. butter
2 tbsp. flour
½ tsp. salt

Cook tomatoes, bay leaf, cloves, onion, sugar, parsley, peppercorns, and celery salt in 1-quart saucepan over medium heat 10 minutes. Rub through a sieve. Melt butter in small saucepan, and stir in flour and salt. When well blended, add tomato puree, stirring constantly over low heat until mixture thickens and boils. Serve with meat loaf, croquettes, or timbales. Makes about 1 cup of sauce.

CHERRY QUICKIE

1 cup sifted flour
1 cup brown sugar
1 tsp. cinnamon
3 tbsp. butter or margarine
3 cups canned, pitted cherries
Mix flour, brown sugar and cinnamon together. Cut or rub in butter. Place cherries in greased 8 x 8 x 2-inch pan and sprinkle with flour mixture. Bake in moderate oven (350 deg. F.) about 30 minutes. Serve with plain or whipped cream. Makes 9 servings.

Today's Food Bargains

While prices on spinach and the cabbage family—broccoli, cauliflower and cabbage itself—show a firmer tendency today, there are other good vegetable buys in the market. Beets, turnip and carrots are plentiful and reasonable. Meat prices show little change from those a week ago. Despite an apparent settlement of fish industry problems, it will take some time for fish counters to resume normalcy in price and volume. The citrus fruits, especially oranges and grapefruit, lead fruit counter attractions.

Beets, bunch 6½ to 10c
Carrots, bunch 5c
Turnips, per lb. 3½ to 5c
Roast Beef, per lb. 35c to 39c
Lamb Fore, per lb. 15c to 18c
Lamb Legs, per lb. 31c
Pork Loin Roast, per lb. 27c to 29c
(These prices are quoted by the Massachusetts Department of Agriculture.)

COURTESY TOWARD CHILD

You like to have your new possessions admired . . . then don't ignore the child who wants you to "see my new teddy."

Fashion

LOVELY LANA TURNER, in her at-home moments, doesn't live in the voluptuous negligee sort of garment in which she is usually pictured. Here she is in her library, as attractive as ever, wearing a smart, "longer-length" jacket in a shepherd's check tweed over her dark wool jersey shirtwaist frock. The jacket will double in brass with skirts and blouses, go to the races and come in very handy when the wind sweeps across the clubhouse veranda, or go with you on your vacation for chilly evenings. A grand and versatile item of any girl's wardrobe. This one is double-breasted and semi-fitted, but if you haven't Miss Turner's lines you can get one cut on more casual lines.

IT'S TIERS ON EVENING GOWNS FOR SPRING WEAR

By BETTINA BEDWELL

A VARIATION of the full evening skirt that designers suggest for Spring is the two-tiered skirt, or one with three or more tiers. Miss Dulin's sketch shows a two-tiered model.

This kind of skirt is as graceful as the very full skirt, and less cumbersome. It's also new looking.

The Villa Zigmund dresses are quite a big item in Spring fashions both for dress-up daytime wear and for evening. There's no more flattering trimming.

Made of black taffeta, this dress has pleated black lace ruffles for trimming.

Each of the skirt tiers is edged with pleated lace, and the low-cut waist has lace around the front panel, edging the decollete.

CHIC YOUNG

Love and Marriage Mother of Three Bewildered

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I'VE BEEN MARRIED ten years and have three boys, the youngest one only a month old. It seems that I have failed in the rearing of my children. Everybody finds fault with them and scolds them, even my husband. He threatens to give up his job so he can stay home and take care of his children.

It isn't that I'm an ultra-modern mother. My only vice is smoking and I haven't been out an evening in six months. My husband is active in politics and union functions, but he never takes me to any of the social activities. He seldom talks to me except to criticize. Everybody likes him, and I feel as if I'm a millstone around his neck.

Do you think I ought to leave my family, as I don't want to hurt my baby's up-bringing, as I seem to have the others. I love my children, and still love my husband, but if I'm in their way, I ought to go away and let someone take over. BEWILDERED MOTHER.

Your letter suggests to me that there is nothing more wrong with you than an inferiority complex. And please don't be morbid and think it might be well for your children to leave them. No one would love them as much. Join the Parent-Teachers' Ass'n in your children's school and listen to the problems presented by speakers, and other mothers.

Go to your public library and get the librarian to suggest some of the best books on child rearing. The Department of Labor also puts out books on bringing up children. These may be obtained from the Government Printing Office. If you've been too easy on the children, learn to be a little strict. Any normal woman should be able to learn how to bring up her own family.

Good Manners

Anonymous Gift Mystery

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN,

I'm at a loss to know what to do. Recently I received a very lovely gift from a friend for my new baby girl, and there was no card enclosed.

I telephoned to the store from which it came and they could not give me any help. They told me that they remembered that a card was left to be enclosed with the gift, but that it had been misplaced in the wrapping and that they could not find it.

This friend, whoever she is, must think I'm terribly ungrateful. What can I do? N. A.

I realize how troubled you are about this embarrassing situation, for I had a similar experience not so long ago. The only way of finding out the identity of the kind friend is to mention the circumstance as tactfully as possible to friends who you know best, and hope for the happy solution of the mystery. Eventually it will be solved, I am sure.

REDS CITE NAZIS' BIG LOSS

wiping out a group of Spanish volunteers serving as ski troops.

The Russian government, meanwhile, said its winter offensive was rolling on and that counterattacks against the Red army on some sectors had been repelled "with heavy losses to the Germans."

DRIVE GERMANS BACK

In fierce fighting on the northern wing of the front, between Moscow and Leningrad, Soviet troops were reported officially to have captured a strongly fortified position identified only as "L," wiping out the German garrison of more than 400 men and capturing a large quantity of material.

In another sector the Russians said their artillery had beaten back three Nazi counterattacks in the past week and had destroyed "five enemy blockhouses, four defense works and 50 other fortified positions." German losses in futile assaults in this region were estimated at 400 officers and men.

On the southern wing of the front the Russians credited their artillery with destroying a German railway train and dispersing two companies of troops.

Soviet guerrillas, operating in the Kursk region some 125 miles north of Kharkov, Donetsk basin industrial center, were said to have ambushed a German transport column and captured three field guns and 27 carts loaded with supplies.

HITLER SUPPLIES WRECKED

(Adolf Hitler's high command declared yesterday that strong Soviet detachments had been surrounded on the central front—where Nazi-held Smolensk is their major goal—and "are approaching annihilation.")

"A rifle unit commanded by Comrade Glas in the last week of fighting with the enemy captured seven German tanks and 25 guns," a communique said. "The enemy lost more than 2500 soldiers and officers."

(Even Soviet generals are often identified as "comrades.") A rifle unit might be any formation from a squad to an infantry division.)

A Tass dispatch broadcast by the Moscow radio said Soviet artillery had destroyed two heavily loaded trains—one of gasoline tank cars and the other bearing war materials—as they approached a German-occupied railway station on the southern front.

Shipments of medicine, clothing, chocolate and other gifts from the United States are being announced, have arrived in Kuibyshev, the secondary capital on the lower Volga, and the Arctic port Murmansk for distribution to the Red army and Russian war refugees.

Purest Diet, Found at Yale, All Synthetic

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE

NEW HAVEN, Ct., Feb. 20 (AP)—The purest pure food diet ever achieved was reported today in Science, the official American journal, by Lola H. Rogers, L. W. McElroy and George R. Cowgill, Yale.

The food is all synthetic, that is, artificially made. The remarkable part is that on such diets animals have difficulty in reproducing, but on this Yale diet a second generation of mice has been born and lived long into health maturity.

This is the first time that has been accomplished. It is important even for those who don't diet much, because such a diet permits scientists to look for the answers to human puzzles about the effects of food on health, length of life and cancer.

The scientific feeder can know for a fact the results for or against good health are due to any change he made and not to something the farmer, the soil, rain, wind or the grocery boy dragged in.

Denner Was All-America Champ

I HAVE ALWAYS felt it would be only a matter of time before some of our former All-America amateur boxing champions battled the professional title holders. Abe Denner, who won the All-America title in the 126-pound class five years ago, will make a stout hearted effort to lift Jackie Wilson's world's featherweight championship at Mechanics Building tonight.

Wilson must be a very good boxer and a handy young fellow with his dukes to win NBA title recognition. Champions usually possess class as Billy Conn found out when he collided with Tony Zale, middleweight boss, in the New York Garden last week. Figuring on this basis, Wilson will be prepared to step along at a lively clip when he opposes Denner.

On form, Wilson should win, but it is always unwise to underrate any of these youngsters who have blazed their way to flistic fame in All-America tournaments. They have the ability to climb the heights when the chips are down.

Denner won his All-America title in the New York Hippodrome. He beat the best amateurs of his weight in the country.

Later the West End youth took part in an international boxing tournament in Havana and came through a winner.

Denner has exceptional boxing skill, as Wilson will find out tonight. He has speed, fine ring generalship, while he can deliver a healthy beat with each hand.

When Denner was an amateur he stood so much over his field that George Freeman of the Irish-American A. used to have difficulty filling the 126-pound class if the West End youth signified his intention of competing.

As a professional, Denner has shown the same boxing skill, speed and hitting power of his amateur days. With experience, he has improved a great deal. He realizes the Wilson bout presents him with the major opportunity of his career.

Denner is a member of the West End House which is one of the finest organizations in this city interested in the welfare of young men. As an All-America champion, Denner was tendered a dinner by the members of the West End House. Tonight these associates of Abe will be gathered around the ring at Mechanics Building and will root for him to beat the champion.

Wilson Saves Title

Wilson will not risk his title tonight. He has insisted that Denner enter the ring overweight which shows how highly he rates the West End boxer.

Wilson has agreed with Jack O'Brien, matchmaker for the Boston Boxing Club, that he will come back to this city to meet Denner for the championship if the latter wins tonight.

In the past there have been numerous stirring featherweight bouts in this city. The most important was one between Dick Finnegan and Chick Suggs which was billed for the world's championship. Finnegan won the decision before 15,300 persons who paid $36.00 in the box office. Incidentally this was the biggest crowd to ever see a sports event in the Arena.

Red Chapman, Sammy Fuller, Andre Routis, Jake Zaramby, Jimmy Walsh, Johnny Kilbane, Johnny Dundee, Benny Valgar, Al Delmont and other famous featherweights tossed punches in this city.

Kilbane risked his title against Walsh, and the official decision was a draw. Walsh and Delmont were originally bantamweights, but each put on weight and ended up boxing as featherweights.

Routis lost to Finnegan and Zaramby in overweight matches at the time he held the world's title.

If Denner tonight can come up to the boxing class shown by Finnegan and Zaramby at the time they made their bids against a ring king, the fans should witness one of the best bouts of the indoor season.

All-America Champs

George Martin, Salvatore Bartolo, Xancy Henry, "Red" Priest, Patsy Pacino are some of the former All-America champions who have gone on to fame in the professional ring.

Each year the All-America tournament develops new flistic stars, and in time some of them will gain professional titles. Abe Denner insists he will take a long forward step when he breezes into action against Wilson tonight. He will remember the slogan of his amateur days.

"All-America. Here we come!"

Change Dates of "Y" Basketball Tourney

CHICAGO, Feb. 20 (AP)—Dates of the International YMCA invitational basketball championships have been changed to March 30, 31 and April 1, H. G. Immenhausen, meet chairman, announced today.

They were scheduled previously for March 26-28. More than 20 teams from all parts of the United States already have entered.

TOMMIES WANT TO SEE LOUIS

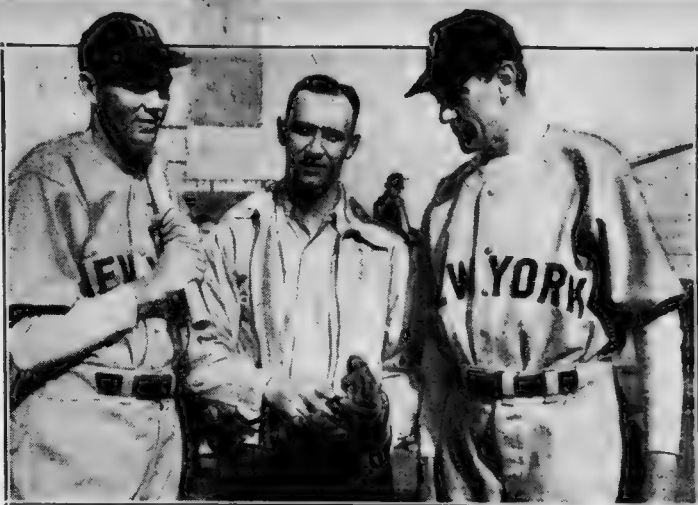

LONDON, Feb. 20 (AP)—British soldiers want to see their most potent individual ally—Private Joe Louis Barrow of the U. S. Army—in action.

The Marquess of Queensberry, whose grandfather put politeness to a certain degree—into prize fighting, was reported today to be attempting to arrange a series of exhibition matches in Britain for the world heavyweight champion.

As yet, however, none of Britain's pugilistic Spiffins have volunteered for a dogfight with the Brown Bomber. A group of Britishers, including the Tenth Marquess of Queensberry, whose predecessor, the Eighth Marquess, was one of the authors of the British boxing code drawn up in 1866, is understood to be undertaking negotiations for the transfer of Louis to Britain. They hope matches may be arranged for Belfast, near which the first American contingents are stationed, and London.

didn't fare well financially in Toronto.

MONEY IN BANK
Before the season was over, World War No. 2 was on, and the Canadian government placed restrictions on taking money out of the dominion. So, Burns still has a credit of $3500 in a Toronto bank which he will not be able to get until after the war.

The Tigers sold Burns to San Francisco in 1940, Landis awarded Jack $7500, and last season he played independent ball at Lynn. The acquisition of Burns rounds out a fine staff of minor league managers for the Braves organization. Bissonette is at Hartford, Bob Coleman at Evansville and there's no better handler of young players in the v-v-v-v-v. Coleman. Then there's Rudy Huls-wit, who is ready to step in at any spot as well as scout.

Pres. Bob Quinn announced today that he'd received pitcher George Diehl's signed contract. Diehl has been a member of the Braves family since 1939, when he joined the Charleston, W. Va., club from Kingsport.

After winning 12 and losing 5 in the Mid-Atlantic League, Diehl was moved up to Hartford, where in 1940 his W-L was 11 and 8. A year ago, Diehl was unable to get started at Hartford. After he had been in 21 games and had set up a record of two victories against eight defeats, he was shipped to Coleman at Evansville.

For the last half of the season, Diehl was a sensation. Under Coleman he regained his confidence and hung up eight straight wins.

Diehl will be 24 years old next Wednesday. He was born in Allentown, Pa., but now resides at Kingsport, Ky. He's a right hander, standing six-two and weighing 196. Although he has been a winning pitcher every year since he came into the Boston organization, Diehl has never made a spring training trip with the Varsity. He will report to Manager Casey Stengel one week from Tuesday at Sanford, Fla., and has better than an even chance of remaining with the Braves. If not, Bob Coleman would not have recommended him.

Indians Ship Lemon To Baltimore Club

CLEVELAND, Feb. 20 (AP)—The Cleveland Indians today sent a second player—Infielder Bob Lemon—to Baltimore to help cement their new working agreement with the International League club. Lemon, 21, was with Wilkes-Barre (Pa.) last season. He will report to the Baltimore spring training camp at Hollywood, Fla., and is expected to be used at third base. The other Tribesman optioned to Baltimore is Mike Nymick, 6-foot 8-inch pitcher.

WYATT STAYS ON FARM; M'PHAIL'S MOVE NOW

BUCHANAN, Ga., Feb. 20 (AP)—It was very cold out on the expansive John Whitlow Wyatt farm today, but the tall Brooklyn hurler said it was nothing compared to the cold shoulder he's getting from the Dodgers over his 1942 contract.

The whole situation has the 33-year-old, partly bald Brooklyn mound ace puzzled to the point where he spurs most questions with a "I just don't know."

Wyatt said he had made three moves and he's right where he started. He made General Manager Larry MacPhail a proposition on a visit to New York recently. MacPhail didn't make him one. Then came a contract in the mail. He didn't like it, sent it back. The same day he got another contract. It wasn't as good as the first. It went back.

NOT A HOLDOUT

And there stands the 1942 agreement on terms between the Dodgers and the man who hurled 22 victories against 10 defeats for the National League champions. MacPhail hasn't replied to a letter that went back with the first contract, hasn't said one word and Wyatt is just sitting tight.

"I don't wish to be classed as a holdout," drawled the North Georgian. "The contracts usually are sent out around the first of the year, but this time they were late, and you've got to have time to think things out. I am not going to report until the terms are settled. If we can't get together up here, we can't get there."

Wyatt, second ranking National League hurler last season, has been reported asking $20,000, or some $7500 over the 1941 pay. He declined to say anything about the figures at this stage.

TWO CONTRACTS IN ONE DAY

Both of the contracts sent to him, Wyatt said, called for small increases. The first one had two bonus clauses and an ultimatum that it would not hold good unless he reported for spring training on time. Wyatt didn't like that one and shot it back with a letter.

"And do you know," he went on, "the same day I mailed that one back, I got another one that called for the same amount of money, but the bonus clauses had been taken out. I mailed that one back yesterday, and will say right here on the farm until Larry says something."

Durocher Picks Kimball Fourth Starting Pitcher

HAVANA, Feb. 20 (AP)—Manager Leo Durocher of the Brooklyn Dodgers believes he has found the fourth starting pitcher he needs to defend its National League championship.

He is Newell Kimball, big, blond right-hander, who is getting ready for his third season with the Dodgers.

"I told Kimball he has a job on my staff," Durocher said, "but the Dodgers hustled through their first spring workout yesterday."

"I told him I'm going to pitch him in exhibition games right before Wyatt and Higbe. I believe he can make it. If he has as much confidence in himself as I have in him, he'll be all right."

WITH MONTREAL IN '41

The Dodgers obtained Kimball along with Gus Mancuso in a trade for Al Todd in December, 1939, but his first-year efforts for Brooklyn were undistinguished and he was sent to Montreal on option.

The St. Louis Cardinals bought him conditionally for $2500, or another $12,500 to be added if he made the grade by May, 1941. But the Cards returned him to Montreal when the deadline arrived.

To get Kimball out of the National League, however, it was necessary for the Cards to claim Wyatt on him, and Brooklyn put in a bid. Special dispensation from Commissioner K. M. Landis was required, since Kimball had been sold to the Cardinals before the draft meeting

WON THREE GAMES

The 27-year-old 200-pounder has a better-than-average fast ball, a fair curve and fine control. Although he was with the Dodgers from May 15 to the end of the season last year, Kimball pitched in only 32 innings and won three games and lost one.

Durocher disclosed that Hugh Casey would be his No. 1 relief pitcher again, with Freddy Fitzsimmons and Johnny Allen manipulated for certain spots.

That means that Whit Wyatt, Kirby Higbe, Curt Davis and probably Kimball will be rotated in order.

Hub Man Named To Softball Berth

W. E. Landis, Amateur Softball Ass'n head, today announced the appointment of W. Duncan Russell, 739 Boylston st., Boston, as 1942 softball commissioner for Metropolitan Boston.

For the duration, the A. S. A. is co-ordinating its softball with the "Hate America" physical fitness of Civilian Defense Program.

Softball is one of the team sports that has no need for rubber and there are no priorities on any of its other equipment.

All A. S. A. play for both men and women will be conducted this year as usual and will be larger than ever before because U. S. Army, Navy and aviation base softball champions will be eligible to compete in the state or metropolitan tournament.

Chick Harbert Credits Rise To Putting

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 20 (AP)—

Chick Harbert, one of golf's leading youngsters this season, and Jimmy Demaret, who ranked at the top two years ago, agreed today that a putting streak really makes the difference as they lead off in the New Orleans $5000 open tournament.

Two seasons ago when Demaret came here to win the local event he said:

"My putter is so hot I'm afraid to go to sleep at night for fear I'll lose it."

This was in the midst of his spectacular campaign of six victories in nine major events on the winter swing—a record no other golfer has ever equalled.

PUTTING OFF

This season the best he's done is a single third place.

"I'm hitting the ball better than I ever did before," he said, "but two years ago I averaged 23 or 24 putts a round and now I'm putting 32 or 34."

Harbert was just another good amateur when Jimmy was at the top. Last year he was called a "young golfer." No he has arrived, has won two events on the winter circuit, and is fresh from beating veteran Ben Hogan in a playoff for the Texas open championship.

The biggest reason," he explained, "is that my putting has improved 200 per cent. I used to miss two putts of three feet or less every round. Clip two strokes off your average and it makes a big difference."

HOGAN MYSTERY MAN

Harbert suddenly stepped up into the class of consistent money winners at Harlingen, Tex., when he changed his style after studying the putting of Horton Smith and Leonard Dodson, and borrowed Tony Penna's putter, which he has used ever since.

He scored his first major victory in the next meet, the Beaumont, Tex., open.

But how can Ben Hogan stay up near the top so long?

"He seems to be on a permanent putting streak," grinned Demaret.

Mulligan Adds To Ring Laurels

Jimmy Mulligan, national mid-weight amateur boxing champion, added another title to his list by knocking out the champion, in a triumph over Joe Fichtel, Lawrence, in the state championship bouts in the Rex Arena, Lowell.

Mulligan, a grid star at Keith Academy, drove home the deciding punch in the third round, forcing Referee Eddie Bradley to call a halt to the match.

Other winners were Joe Hebert, 126-lb. in the 12-pound class; Eddie Gullage, Chelsea, in the 118's; Norman Giles, Wilmington, in the 126's; Sylvester O'Donnell, Boston Navy and in the 135's; Frank MacDougal, Roxbury, in the 147's; James Fagiano, Lawrence, in the 158's, and James Prendible, Charlestown, in the heavyweight division.

Robinson, Berger Meet in Gotham Ring

NEW YORK, Feb. 20 (AP)—

Ray Robinson, Harlem's hammering welterweight who has won all the 27 ring battles he has entered since turning professional, meets Maxie Berger of Montreal in a scheduled 15-round bout at Madison Square Garden tonight.

Robinson, regarded as the No. 1 challenger for Red Cochrane's welterweight crown since making Fritz Zivic his 20th knockout victim, will climb through the ropes a tophay favorite at odds of around 1 to 5.

Hollett OK But Bruins Boot Game

By the Associated Press

The Brooklyn Americans and the Detroit Red Wings didn't untie their fifth-place deadlock in the National Hockey League last night, but they boosted themselves to a slightly more comfortable distance from the cellar.

Brooklyn downed the wobbly Boston Bruins, 6-4, while the Red Wings swamped the Chicago Black Hawks, 6-1.

Not only did the triumphs increase from one to three points the margin between the two winners and the tail-end Montreal Canadiens, but Brooklyn's victory kept the stumbling New York Rangers in sole possession of the league lead.

LOSE ON BAD PASSES

The Rangers, idle until Sunday, are two points ahead of Boston and the Toronto Maple Leafs, still tied for second four points above Chicago.

The Bruins had the lead three times at Madison Square Garden last night, but couldn't hold it, and tossed away three goals to the Americans on bad passes.

Mel Hill scored once for Brooklyn when he intercepted a pass from Des Smith of the Bruins. Murph Chamberlain added another for the Americans by heading the Bruins to a loose puck, and the final goal of the night was credited to Billy Benson of Brooklyn, although Dutch Hiller accidentally knocked the puck into his own cage.

Flash Hollett, who returned to his old spot as center, paced the Boston attack with two goals and assisted in one by Hiller. Harvey Jackson tallied the fourth.

At Detroit, the Wings scored three times in six minutes of the second period and added three more in the last stanza, snapping Chicago's three-game winning streak.

Stevens Offers To Coach Free

NEW YORK, Feb. 20 (AP)—Dr. Mai Stevens, New York University football coach, is prepared to resign or coach without pay if it means the difference between retaining or dropping football at the university, the student publication, Heights Daily News, said.

University officials have under consideration a plan to abolish varsity football, which suffered financially in recent years.

The newspaper quoted Stevens as saying he would "gladly take any cut in salary commensurate with the situation," adding that if necessary he would either resign or coach without pay.

Montreal Six Arrives Here

A squad of 13 schoolboy hockey players, representing Catholic High of Montreal which plays the Greater Boston Interscholastic League All Stars in the annual Washington's Birthday game, is expected to arrive tomorrow morning at North Station.

The Canadian puckchasers, who won easily last year, will journey to Providence Sunday where they have an engagement with Mount St. Charles Academy Alumni of Woonsocket.

The Black and White forces, defending champions and present Senior Interscholastic Hockey League leaders at home, are again favored to tip over the best of the G. E. I. loop.

Of the 13-man squad that played in the Hub last year, more than half will be missing when the group detains tomorrow. Several of last year's team have either been graduated or enlisted in the Canadian army.

Three of the outstanding players who performed at the Garden in last year's 4-2 win, now in the armed forces, are Frank McGrath, RCAF; Jordan, Decelles, regular army, and Ed "Red" Nowar in the Navy.

NORWEGIAN SKIER RIVALS JACK LONDON'S BOOK HEROES

By "TAP" GOODENOUGH

A plot that equals any woven by the great Jack London is the tale of the sensational Norwegian ski jumper, now competing in this country, under the nom de plume of "Ola."

Following an amazing series of adventures, "Ola" and some friends finally escaped from Norway after being intercepted three times by the Nazis. The party embarked in a tiny sailboat and battled mountainous waves for weeks in crossing the Atlantic. It is difficult to conceive how they accomplished this feat, but theirs was an unconquerable will, typifying the courageous spirit which has prevailed in Norway's struggle against overwhelming odds.

Now located at "Little Norway" in Toronto, Canada, are "Ola" and his friends, "Sigurd" and "Fredrik," who are training to become fliers in the Royal Norwegian Air Force. These chaps have been contestants in several of our major jumping meets for propaganda purposes and to spread good will. For obvious reasons, they cannot use their real names, and their first names which we have given here are also pseudo ones. Incidentally, "Ola" corresponds to our American name of "Bill."

NOT A REFUGEE

Ski scribblers and sports writers of America should give these chaps the right kind of publicity; the kind they deserve. Two weeks ago, certain headlines read: "Norwegian Refugee Wins Nationals." This heading was referring to "Ola's" spectacular victory in the National Jumping Championships at Duluth, Minn., where he upset the seemingly invincible Torger Tokle.

"Ola" justifiably resented being called a refugee; a refugee being one who comes to a country to hide. The point that must be brought out is the fact that these satellites of the searing skies escaped to America in order to train to become aviators, so that they could return to be battle in the clouds over the mountains of their beloved Norway.

TOKLE ENTERED

"Ola" and the other jumpers from "Little Norway" are expected to fly their winged boards from the takeoff of the jump at Brattleboro, Vt., this week-end, where the National Combined Championships are being held.

Torger Tokle has already entered and is again ready to resume his ethereal duel with "Ola." Last year, Tokle said there were several chaps in Norway who could beat him, and, with his typical modesty, he knew what he was saying.

Ski jumping and flying both call for skill and daring. In such brave youths as these Norwegians, the Allied powers have again received an invaluable contribution through the sport of skiing. Keep them flying and keep them skiing!

HALL, GILSON RENEW TRACK WAR AT TUFTS

With a cast of 216 entries, the New England A. A. A. U. track and field committee will play host next Monday in Tufts College cage at its annual indoor championships.

Prominent track and field men from the entire association district are included in the entries and the games committee has lined up what promises to be one of the most attractive cards in N. E. 4-A history.

Among the features to be unveiled is a mile relay that has drawn as contenders Boston College, Holy Cross, Tech, Northeastern, Tufts varsity, Tufts freshmen, B. A. A. Newton Y. M. C. A. and the 389th Field Artillery from Camp Edwards.

MORCOM TO PERFORM

Walter Hall, popular Tufts captain, who was nipped for third place in the hurdles at the B. A. A. meet last Saturday by George Gilson of Holy Cross, will seek to avenge that beating when he faces his Crusader adversary over the 40-yard high sticks. Hall will also run the 600 and anchor the Jumbos' mile relay.

"Boo" Morcom, sensational New Hampshire University sophomore from Brantree, who tied with Olympic Mel Walker for first place in the high jump and finished third to Carl Warmerdam and Lee Meadows in the pole vault epic at last Saturday's Unicorn clash, has entered in his specialties and looks like a sure bet for honors at the meet's outstanding performer. Track experts are almost unanimous in opinion that the lithe Brantree bridge is the most likely successor to the altitudinous California vault king and his appearance is sure to be watched closely by track gentry the nation over.

PROHOSKY HEADS FIELD

Capt. Mike Prohovsky of Northeastern, intercollegiate titlist, heads an eight-man field in the 3-mile run, while E. C. gridster Angelo Sisti, boasting a 48-foot 8-inch heave, is favored over nine other contenders for shot-put honors.

Two of the top ranking field men in the East will come to grips in the 35-pound weight when Norman Wilcox of Rhode Island State faces New Hampshire U's Ed Styra.

DOERR FOLLOWS TERRY, BROWN INTO SOX FOLD

By HERB FINNEGAN

Bobby Doerr's signed contract arrived at the Red Sox office this morning, which means that the 23-year-old mink farmer from Illahe, Ore., is content. That is a good sign because youngsters like Bobby, Jim Tabor and Dom DiMaggio will have to enjoy exceptionally good seasons to take up the slack caused by the absence of Ted Williams' bat. Also, Doerr's presence assures the Sox of a Grade-A infield, what with Lupien at first, Doerr at second, Pesky or Pellagrini at short and Tabe at third. There's youth there, speed and aggressiveness.

Obedience Test Feature Of Dog Show

A special obedience demonstration staged by the New England Dog Training Club will feature the 30th annual Eastern Dog Club show, which will be held at Mechanics Bldg. Sunday and Monday for the benefit of men in the armed services of the United States.

In this exhibition, which will be given twice, at 5 p. m. and 10 p. m. Monday, a cast of some 30 dogs of different breeds will perform. Highlights will be a relay race, with small dogs matched against the larger breeds.

The racers will clear several hurdles, pick up a wooden dumb-bell and return to the starting point where a second pair will start.

In another event, Red Cross and fire department dogs will demonstrate rescue work. A blackout scene also will be presented, in which lighted hoops will be used.

The finale will be Victory March, in which the dogs will parade into a V-formation, with a color guard in the center, while the National Anthem is played.

In the regular judging, which will start Sunday at 1 p. m., there will be 1120 dogs of 75 breeds competing for honors. This year several breeds seldom seen will be benched including a Weimaraner and three Maltese.

The best-in-show will be selected from among the six group finalists Monday night at about 10 p. m. Men in uniform will be admitted free.

Here's an interesting item in connection with Doerr. Fandora was surprised when Joe Cronin announced during the winter that Ulysses Lupien would be the regular Sox first baseman this year. "A kid just out of Harvard taking the great Jimmie Fox's place," everyone marveled. Yet, Lupien, still to play his first full season in the majors, was born on April 23, 1917, and Bobby Doerr, five seasons with the Sox, was born on April 7, 1918. Doerr, therefore, is one year younger than Lupe, yet has been a regular his last four seasons here.

Doerr's greatness lies in his consistency and durability. In 1938, he played in 145 games for the Sox, batted 289, knocked in 80 runs. In 1939 he played in 127 games, batted 318, knocked in 73 runs, and made 12 home runs. In 1940, his best all-round year, he played in 151 games, batted 291, knocked in 105 runs, and made 22 homers. Last season, he played in 132 games, batted 282, knocked in 93 runs, and made 16 homers. When you get a high class fielder who'll hit 290, make 17 home runs and bat in 95 runs a year, you've got a real ball player.

We wrote yesterday that Doerr was not given a raise after his great 1940 season. The Red Sox claim they gave him a "substantial" one. They say he held out last year for reasons other than salary. Somebody's wrong.

Anyway, Bobby's in line, and we're tickled. He's one key man the Red Sox would miss greatly were he to be called into the service, and there's no surety that he won't. Bobby is married, but has no children, and must be fairly well fixed with this world's goods.

Unless Ted Williams' status has not been changed, Johnny Pesky is the only player on the Red Sox roster with the selective service rating of A-1. But he has a high number and expects to be around a few months. Eddie Pellagrini, the other rookie shortstop candidate, is unmarried but in 3-A because of dependents.

The annual farewell party for Johnny Orlando was staged at Coconut Grove last night, and, as is customary, was a howling success. Present were Jim Tabor and the erty, Phil Troy, H. Mason and the entire Red Sox feminine force, including Mary Cadogan and Barbara Tyler. Even the Hon. Maurice J. Tobin dropped in to bid John Goodspeed.

It's getting to be quite an affair, this Orlando farewell dinner. Another year and it may have to be staged at the Garden. Incidentally, Johnny and Tabe will push off for Sarasota Sunday morning from Back Bay Station.

Twelve hours before Doerr's contract arrived, Pitchers Hank Terry and Maco Brown joined the Sox fold. Terry, as has been written often, won 26 games for San Diego last year, after proving a flop with the Red Sox in mid-season of 1940. Brown is the 31-year-old relief pitcher who was released by Brooklyn last August.

FINAL TRIAL FOR AMATEURS AT ARENA

Leading New England amateur glovemans celebrate the holiday Monday by biffing each other about in the fourth and final try-out of the Diamond Ring tournament at the Arena.

Bouts are carded in eight classes from 112 pounders to heavyweights. The show is open to registered N. E. A. A. U. boxers, whose entries must be filed in writing with Tom Kanaly at the Arena.

Monday night's winners will qualify for the finals at the Arena March 2. Winners in that show will qualify for the New England A. A. U. championships at the Garden on March 23.

SUDDEN RISE
As only those who win the New England championships will be eligible for the Nationals at the Garden on April 13, 14 and 17, winning a Diamond Ring final is a move in the direction of the title show. For those who do not win on March 2 there will be tryouts for the New England on March 9 and 16 to qualify for the N. E. championships.

Heading a large list of new entries received today was James Sauer, Cambridge, a youngster who has moved to the front with rapidity during the present season. Only a novice in the early stages of this campaign, the Cantab has gone a long way to win the All-America title at the Garden last month.

DEVINE IN HEAVIES
Facing Sauer will be Dom O'Brien, No. Reading; Johnnie Rizzo, East Boston; William Timilty, Roxbury; Fred Crowley, Dorchester; Roger LaPerle, Worcester; Orlando Meola, E. Boston and Bernie McLaughlin, Charlestown. Other entries came from Lou Saggese, Chelsea, and Eddie Curry Charlestown, 147s; James Kenney, Lowell, 160s; Pat Devine, Cambridge, former New England A. A. U. champion, and Manuel Baptiste, Taunton, in the heavyweight division.

Hyde Park Ties Roslindale Six

Roslindale was deprived of a share of first place and South Boston copped sole honors in the District Division of the Boston Schoolboy Hockey Conference when Hyde Park wrestled "Rossie" to a 1-1 draw in the season's final round.

In other games, Jamaica Plain plastered Charlestown 5-1 and East Boston and Brighton were scoreless.

R. I. Star Pushes Record Higher

KINGSTON, R. I., Feb. 20 (AP)—Stanley "Stutz" Modzelewski, the nation's new basketball scoring leader, ran his total for four seasons of play to 1619 tonight as he scored 21 points in R. I. State's 75-50 victory over Springfield College. State won the game going away after Springfield had given the Rams a battle in the first half.
